FORCE NAZIS TO FALL BACK

Japan Will Be Shorn Of Entire Stolen Empire

Allied Agreement Will Relegate Japan To Role Of Third Rate Power

INTENSIFICATION OF WAR IS SEEN

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Japan faced today the complete loss of her stolen empire and relegation to the role of a third rate power as a result of the historic agreement reached by President Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

This is the territorial price which the three allied leaders have decided Japan must pay for plunging the Pacific into war and pursuing a long-time policy of barbaric conquest in the far east.

Momentous Agreement

The agreement reached between the president, Churchill and the Chinese leader in one of the most momentous conferences in history is considered likely to determine the fate of Japan for centuries to come.

Diplomatic Washington also foresaw intensification of the war against Japan in the official joint statement that the American, British and Chinese military missions "have agreed upon future military operations" designed to bring "unrelenting pressure against their brutal enemies by sea, land and air."

Although the White House announcement said nothing about a Roosevelt-Churchill meeting with Stalin, it is believed such a conference is now underway. Foreign reports claim the meeting with Stalin is taking place in Teheran, capital of Iran.

Discuss War In Europe

The president and Churchill, having decided on the future destiny of Japan, are now thought to be

Parley Reported In Wake Of Roosevelt, Churchill And Chiang Kai-Shek At Cairo

Allied Nations Announce Determination To Crush Japanese Empire Completely

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S Staff Correspondent)

CAIRO, Dec. 2—President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kia-Shek today were reported in conference with Premier Joseph Stalin to decide the fate of Germany, common enemy of the United Nations.

The president,, the prime minister and the generalissimo, at the completion of their historic six-day meeting in Cairo, left with their large diplomatic and military entourages for an unnamed destination, reportedly to meet Stalin.

(Reuters, British news agency, stated the conferees were headed for Persia to meet Stalin. Axis sources declared the four-power meeting is taking place in Teherin.)

Stalin Not at Cairo Meeting

The dramatic meeting of Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang, at which a new program was decided upon to crush Japan and then strip her of all territories she has conquered since 1895, was not attended by the Russian premier, presumably because of the fact that the U. S. S. R. is not a war with Japan.

It is assumed by authoritative persons who are in a position to know, that the four-power meeting now reported to be going on with Stalin present, will result in a similarly determined decision concern- war and navy departments and other government agencies have

Violent Combat At Two Points In Dnieper Sector

Moscow Reports Nazi Forces Retreating In White Russia Area

BAD WEATHER IS SLOWING ACTION

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—Massive Russian and Nazi tank and infantry forces were locked in violent combat today at two points along the Dnieper river. Meanwhile, three powerful Soviet columns hammered at remnants of a huge German army fleeing wildly along the Gomel-Minsk railroad.

Both around Cherkassy, behind the Dnieper bend, and near Kremenchug, the enemy was resisting Russian advances fiercely and counter-attacking consistently.

Action Slowed Down

Action in these sectors has been slowed down somewhat by bad weather which turned the terrain to quagmires. However, with cessation of the rain, battles within the Dnieper bend broke out again with increased intensity.

The enemy hurled as many as 15 separate counter-thrusts against the Soviet forces in the Kremenchug area. The Red army, however, repulsed all the Nazi attacks successfully, killing at least 800 Germans and capturing several strong points.

An additional 2,000 enemy officers and men were wiped out in the fierce clashes near Cherkassy, where the Red army continued operations to extend its bridgehead across the Dnieper river.

More Towns Taken

To the north, where battered remnants of a German army streaked northwestward along the railway toward Minsk, several more towns and villages northwest of Gomel fell before converging Russian pincers.

The escape corridor for the Germans northwest of Gomel had been narrowed to less than 20 miles and the threat to Zhlobin, vital rail junction, mounted hourly.

Front-line dispatches described the German retreat in this section

TRIPLE SLAYING ON OHIO FARM LIKELY SOLVED

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 2.—(INS)—The Thanksgiving eve slayings of three members of the McCoy family near Washington C. H., O., appeared solved today with the purported confession of James W. Collett, 60-year-old brother-in-law of Elmer McCoy, that he had shot McCoy to death in a dispute over money.

Fayette County Sheriff W. H Icenhower, who announced the confession, said that Collett claimed to have a lapse of memory after shooting McCoy, leaving unsolved for the moment the murders of McCoy's wife, Forrest, 64, and the couple's daughter, Mildred, 22, who were shot at the same time.

"But I am convinced that the entire thing was the work of one man," the sheriff added.

Both Collett, Clinton County farm leader, and McCoy, wealthy 59-year-old Fayette County hog-breeder were prominent in their respective communities.

BALL-BEARING PLANT BOMBED

Report American Flying Fortresses Make Raid On Plants In Turin

ALGIERS, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Huge American Flying Fortresses today were revealed to have hammered the Fiat ball-bearing plant for the second time in a "large-scale attack" on the north Italian city of Turin.

The plant, which was rendered inoperative for a considerable period by the November 8th raid, was undergoing repairs by the Nazis. Observing this through aerial reconnaissance, headquarters of the Northwest African Air Force dispatched a heavy force of the four motored craft against the factory.

Attacking in two waves, 45 minutes apart, the Forts started huge fires and set off many explosions through the target area, an official communique said.

Nearby railroads were also hit, as well as the Fiat motor factory.

General Giles letter reads as follows:

"My Dear Mrs. Kaplan:

"With great regret, I have learned that an official determination has been made of the death of your son, First Lieutenant Joshua Kaplan, who has been missing since November 17, 1942, in the European area.

REINFORCEMENTS RUSHED BY NAZIS

By GRAHAM HOVEY
(I. N. S Staff Correspondent)

ALGIERS, Dec. 2—A new break-through by the British Eighth Army on the Adriatic end of the Italian battle-front has forced the Germans into "full retreat," a special communique from the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today.

The retreat, however, is not a rapid one, for the enemy is moving backward slowly and stubbornly, fighting for every yard and making full use of demolitions, minefields and rearguards.

The Germans are rushing "heavy reinforcements" from Northern Italy to the battle area in an attempt to check the battling Eighth in its drive toward Rome.

Nazi Losses Heavy

Nazi losses in killed and wounded have been very heavy, the official communique stated, and more than 1,000 German prisoners were captured by the Eighth as it advanced.

Escort Carrier Lost In Gilberts Navy Reports

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. — The navy announced today that the American escort carrier Liscome Bay was torpedoed and sunk during the recent invasion of the Gilbert Islands.

"This is the only ship lost in the Gilbert Islands operation," the navy said.

This was the first of this type of small aircraft carrier lost in the war. She was torpedoed by an enemy submarine on November 24.

No estimate was made of the ship's personnel or the losses beyond the fact that the skipper and an admiral aboard the carrier were missing in action.

The skipper was Capt. Irving D. Wiltsie, of Plainfield, N. J.

Previously Secretary of the Navy Knox disclosed that Rear Admiral Henry Mullinnix of Attica, Ind. commander of one of the task forces in the Gilbert operation, also was missing.

Naval officials today admitted Mullinnix was aboard the Liscombe Bay when she went down somewhere off the Gilberts.

If your feeling rather droopy and you haven't any pep, if you're feeling some lethargic and there's slow time in your step, there's a remedy, old fashioned one, that I am sure you'll like, get yourself out in the open and enjoy a two-mile hike. Take a dog that wants to frolic, cut a cane from off a tree, get your pipe and then get going and in short time you will see that the roses have moved back into your cheeks and in your feet there'll be pep and at the table you will find you'll want to eat. Hiking's good for just what ails you, and it's also lots of fun, this prescription is a free one and the weather's fifty-one.

pilot and a valuable asset to his organization, earning the praise of superiors for his courage and the excellent manner in which he performed assigned duties. In addition, his pleasing personality won a host of friends, all of whom mourn his death.

"As time passes, I hope that you will find some comfort in the knowledge that your son died in the service of our country.

"In behalf of General H. H. Arnold, Commanding General of the Army Air Forces, who is temporarily away from headquarters, I offer my deepest sympathy to you and other members of your family.

Very Sincerely,
BARNEY M. GILES,
Major General, U. S. Army,

Joshua Kaplan was an idealist who felt that the cause of Democracy was so dear to him that he was willing to lay down his life for it.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he completed his pre-med course in 1940, majoring in psychology, he took civilian flight training here and at Butler to prepare him for later service in the U. S. Army Air Force. He offered his services to his country and was accepted in January 1941. A few months later, he was called up for service, being assigned to Hatbox Field, Muskogee, Okla., in July, 1941. Later he went to Randolph Field, Texas, and finally received his wings at Foster Field, Victoria, Texas. He took advanced training at McDill Field, Tampa, Fla., and Sarasota Field, Fla., before going overseas.

He was born December 31, 1917. While a student in Junior high school, he received the American Legion Medal Award, as the outstanding boy in his class. He graduated from Senior high school in the June class, 1935.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by three brothers, First Lt. Yale Kaplan, who is stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., where he is taking an advanced course as an officer in the Field Artillery; Bernard Kaplan, of Los Angeles, Calif.; and Sherman Kaplan, at Penn State College, who has been discharged from army service on certificate of disability.

MOTHER AND TWO SONS PLUNGE TO DEATH AT HOTEL

she left the Islip home yesterday with her sons and some luggage with the declaration that she would spend the night with friends.

Instead she registered at the hotel, signed her name as Mrs. Mary Heddingh. She and the children were given a room on the 15th floor.

The skylight crashes were heard by Morris Greenbaum, owner of the tailor shop, a one-floor extension of the hotel.

The bodies did not come through the reinforced glass. But Greenbaum told police he heard two separate crashes—not one.

It seemed most likely to police that one child had gone first and then the mother with the other in her arms.

The bodies were identified at Roosevelt hospital by Mrs. Tomlinson's brother. The mother was fully dressed, while the youngsters wore pajamas.

Police advanced the theory that Mrs. Tomlinson had become depressed by failure to obtain a passport to England. They said she might have got one for herself but not for the children.

PRESIDENT IN CONSTANT TOUCH WITH CAPITAL

been lacking to make the outward appearance of "business as usual" at the White House.

But so closely is the White House guarded in these wartime days that casual passersby on Pennsylvania avenue would never have been able to distinguish the flow of the big black official limousines that have continued uninterrupted into and from the White House grounds from those used by cabinet members and congressional leaders when the president is in Washington.

Just when Mr. Roosevelt left Washington for North Africa still must remain an official secret because of the security surrounding the movements of the nation's chief executive.

But the small group of correspondents who "cover" the White House daily have been sitting on the biggest story of the year for weeks, knowing the president was away and knowing the tremendous nature of his mission, but unable to write the story for the obvious reasons of security.

UNCLE SAM'S REAL ESTATE

WE ALL KNOW Uncle Sam has gone into business more or less—in the utility business for example. But perhaps few of us realize that our uncle is also in the real estate business in a big way.

But according to recent statements in Congress the United States is a great war-time purchaser of real estate with more than sixty agencies—mostly bureaucracies to you—busy in the administration of his property. It is even charged that these bureaus do not know how much land Uncle Sam owns, where it is all located or how much it cost the taxpayers.

Attention was called to this real estate business recently by the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures of which Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia is chairman.

It is asserted that the government now owns more than 383,000,000 acres or about one-fifth of all the land in the United States. The tract is equal in size, it is said, to the combined areas of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Caroline, Georgia, Florida, Ohio, Alabama, Kentucky and Indiana.

This is a lot of real estate, if you ask us. It is maintained that of this amount the War department has acquired over 17,000,000 acres during the past two and a half years, for war purposes. This, of course, is but a small percentage of the total real estate holdings of the Federal Government. Total land controlled by the War department on March 1, 1943, was a little more than 43,000,000 acres according to the report.

In view of the report one may well wonder just how much of these 383,000,000 acres Uncle Sam actually needs in his business and what final disposition will be made of it.

Of course, we can understand that the War department needs a lot of land now in view of the tremendous military forces we are training. But whether we will need it when the war is over is another question especially in view of the fact that Secretary Hull promises an iron-clad international agreement for peace after the war is concluded.

Certainly one way to start back to normalcy would be to liquidate some of the large real estate holdings Uncle Sam has when the time for peace transition comes—from the standpoint of economy if for no other reason. There is no criticism, of course, in maintaining legitimate national parks.

Of course, the New Dealers may tell us that since we are the government we really own this land ourselves. All right, then if this explanation soothes you, just try squatting on some of it and see what happens.

TEST OF CHRISTMAS GIVING

The way the government's program for extracting money from the pockets of the civilian is shaping up, it looks as though a great many persons under sixty will have to stay at home nights soon, even though distinguished police authorities deem them comparatively auto-accident proof when in the role of pedestrian.

Federal income taxpayers who filed September 15 declarations and paid only half the estimated tax due have received bills for the second half, payable by December 15. If their estimates were conservative, they must file supplementary estimates on or before December 15.

Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. of the Treasury department announces that the Fourth War Loan drive with a goal of $14,000,000,000 will begin January 18 and continue until February 15.

On March 15 federal income taxpayers must file their annual returns and pay to the government whatever is coming to it through failure to estimate their income sufficiently high—to say as little as possible of that unforgiven half of one-quarter of the 1942 tax.

The moral is: Do your Christmas shopping early, and avoid bumping into that December 15 payment.

Christmas is the one time in the year when everyone can think of others while engaged in shopping. It would be a mean taxpayer who would refrain from giving presents to his friends this particular year when gift buying entails a little sacrifice. In the years before taxes soared so high, many people could give presents to their friends without feeling the pinch. Yuletide, 1943, offers the real test of friendship.

After the holidays, the egotistical taxpayer can devote his thinking to himself—and the government.

SHIP SURPLUS

No activity in the war is more indicative of American enterprise than its shipbuilding program. This is apparent in the statement of Admiral Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, that by the end of 1944 the United States will have delivered more deadweight tonnage of ships than was possessed before the war by all the fleets of the United States, Britain, Germany, Japan and Norway.

In the two years since the Patrick Henry, the first Liberty ship, put to sea, this country has acquired more than 22,000,000 deadweight tons of merchant shipping, or more than 2,100 vessels. Deadweight tonnage will total 50,000,000 tons by the end of next year. Seventy shipyards are working at top speed and will continue to do so until the Axis has been conquered.

The nation will have a tremendous surplus of merchant ships after the war, Admiral Land says. He suggests five ways for disposing of the ships:

Give them away.
Charter them.
Sell them.
Scrap them.
Keep them in reserve.

Admiral Land favors retention of all the larger and faster ships and continuing cargo vessel building in peacetime.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACH CHILD WHAT NOT TO TOUCH

During the discussion I led recently with a young mothers' club, a mother offered some excellent ideas. She said: "I spend short periods every day walking about the house showing my 14 month old baby various things we must touch only very carefully and gently, and showing him how. I even take things down out of his reach for him to see and touch or I hold him up near them.

"Of course he has had his hands slapped consistently for seizing a few things he was told never to touch, just a few. I am sure this restraint is much more effective just because I help him examine carefully so many other things."

A little granddaughter during her 14th, 15th and 16th months and her mother were with us last summer. On their arrival, we three adults—mother, grandmother and grandfather—agreed on just a few things she must never touch—and that when she did, her hands would be slapped by the one of us nearest to her at the time. She got very few slaps all summer and learned quickly to avoid permanently these few forbidden things.

My special bulletin, "How To Teach Tot Meaning of NO," may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

We also agreed we would merely keep her away from other things she could easily harm or which might harm her. What impressed me most was that, barring the few things she was consistently and permanently forbidden (when NO meant instant pain) a mere, quiet "NO," or "No, that is Mother's", or "No, that is Grandpa's," given not as a command but as mere information sufficed. But it would not have sufficed, I am sure, without her having had effective restraint concerning the few forbidden things.

This procedure, of course, required constant supervision by some one while the youngster was awake and outside her pen. Moreover, she gradually learned to be contented in her pen for longer and longer periods of time. She had developed more ways to amuse herself. She was not left unduly long in the play pen at any period. We followed a plan whereby we would go to her at the end of so many minutes, gradually lengthening the interval. Whereas, in her early 14th month she rarely would be happy in her pen for more than ten minutes at a stretch, she often spend periods of half an hour or longer there during her 16th month, even when no other person was in sight. I should add that this child got an abundance of cuddling.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Please suggest a good way to get children of school age to go willingly to church and Sunday school.

A. Let both parents go regularly with these children.

WASHINGTON — Alfred M. Landon: "The recent state and municipal balloting was the best evidence of sentiment throughout the country at the present time. FUTURE HOPE

When men begin to spend their wealth
To fight the subtle foes of health
And use the price of guns and shells
For college and cathedral bells,
Then life, both on the land and sea,
For one and all will happier be.

When reasoning men can find a way
As problems rise, be what they may
To sit together in dispute
And not be moved to strike or shoot,
The following dawn the rising sun
Will light a world with warfare done.
When men no longer teach the boy
To use his knowledge to destroy
And find his fame in maimed and killed,
But train him only how to build,
Then they may dream and hope to see
Their dreams come true, whate'er they be.

WIDOWS AND DIVORCEES

"What is the proper form of address for a divorcee and a widow? We have had numerous arguments about this question. Also, what of the wedding and engagement rings. May either a divorcee or a widow or both continue to wear these?"—M. J.

Answer: A divorced woman has, in most states, the legal right to retain the use of her husband's full name: "Mrs. John Smith". Most divorcees, however, prefer to drop their husbands' Christian names and substitute their own maiden surnames thus: "Mrs. Worthington Smith if the maiden name was, for instance, "Mary Worthington."

A widow, on the contrary, retains her husband's full name for life or until she gives it up through remarriage. She is never socially addressed as "Mrs. Katherine Roberts" but always correctly as "Mrs. John Roberts." Only in business or legal matters may she correctly be addressed by her Christian name and that merely because she so signs herself "Katherine Roberts."

A widow may continue to wear her rings until the day of her remarriage, but most women remove them as soon as they accept the attentions of other men.

Divorcees usually remove theirs as soon as they contemplate divorce or even before. I cannot recall ever seeing a wedding ring on the finger of a divorcee. She would never want to "cramp her style" with any such encumbrance.

Question: I correspond regularly with a boy in the service. Mother thinks I should send him a Christmas gift. Since we are merely friends and he knows I am in love with someone else, I wondered if it would be proper for me to send him a gift.—Betty Ann.

Answer: Send him some inexpensive rememorance: Cigarettes, candy, a writing kit, or some similar gift. The boys who don't get Christmas furloughs are very lonely and appreciate gifts and cards from their friends and relatives. Don't neglect them.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

"What kind of an education do you advocate for our boy? writes a woman reader.

"He is fourteen years old, and my husband and I are constantly arguing whether to send him to college when the time comes.

"I want him to get the best possible education. My husband says, what good is a college education, except to make a snob out of a fellow?

"What do you say?"

The lady goes on to say that they are in reasonably good circumstances but that it would place quite a financial burden on them to send the boy to college.

One of the most difficult things to advise is the kind of an education people should give their youngsters.

I have had more argument about education than about religion—and in either case the arguments never got us anywhere.

I believe that education should bring about just what the word means.

E-ducate come from the Latin, "E" means "out and "ducers" means "lead".

In other words to educate means to bring out and develop what is in a person.

It means to bring out the inherent qualities and capabilities to the fullest of a child's ability but it can do no more.

I fully agree with Dr. J. B. Conant, president of Harvard University, who complains that too many youngsters who haven't any qualifications for it, are sent to college.

I do not believe that college gives a young person a firm foundation for a career in which a higher education is required, or for which it is at least a help.

But I am against a college education simply for the sake of vanity, better social standing, the honor of a degree, or to enable the college-bred female of the species to contract a better marriage.

Education should primarily prepare youngsters to cope with life.

A butcher is a most honorable practitioner of his trade, but he certainly doesn't need a college education.

A physician, a lawyer, an engineer, a banker, a writer should have a college education, by all means.

There is only one factor that should determine this problem: "What is my child best fitted for? What are his aptitudes? What are his leanings, his tastes, his own desires?"

Answer these questions and you know whether to send your child to college.

Give the wrong answer, choose the wrong course—and you will have given another misfit to life, no matter how many the college degrees.

The World and the Mud Puddles

FACTS HARD TO LEARN

Whatever else may have occurred in Germany during the last few months there is no doubt that the propaganda methods of Goebbels have changed. Neutral "leaks" of reports tell of rioting and sabotage in several cities after Hitler's beer cellar speech were a little too perfect. Such disturbances will come, of course, but not yet on a scale worthy of outside attention.

A nation that has endured Hitler as long as Germany has and whose people have swallowed his tall tales of invincibility this long without breaking, certinly could be expected to hold out a little while longer in view of his latest pledges of future successes and retailiation against England. It will not be until Hitler's gullible millions have had time to see the ridiculous aspect of his latest outbreak that they will allow the home front to collapse.

The reports which "leaked" out came through a Swedish newspaper which purports to have sources of news inside Germany. It must be remembered that the Germans, too have had free access to Sweden. It was only a short time ago that Sweden stopped the passage of German troops through that country But for four years of war the Germans have had no restrictions to speak of placed upon them inside Sweden, and it would be a folly to assume that Goebbels would fail to take advantage of such an opportunity. It long has been common talk that the Germans have owned and maintained newspapers in Sweden for the sole purpose of planting whatever propaganda material they desire the Allies to obtain. Stories that would not be credited if it were known that they were coming directly from Germany may have in the past, been widely circulated as true simply because they bore a Swedish label.

It is true that the Germans could glean no ray of hope for the future from Hitler's talk, despite his promises. But it is equally true that

Hints On Etiquette

In these days when jobs are plentiful and workers scarce, it is the wise employe who plays fair with the firm. Being constantly late to work is unfair to those who employ you. When the war is over and jobs less plentiful, it is the person who comes on time and is responsible who will be retained, the tardy ones who will be let go.

Terrific News Story Expected To Break Soon
Senate Determined To Solve Liquor Problem

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The year 1943, now fast drawing to a close, probably will go down as the biggest news year of the war.

There were the Casablanca and Quebec conferences. The United States and British armies cleared the Axis out of Africa. They smashed out the Axis stronghold of Sicily, reduced Sardinia and Corsica, and invaded the continent of Europe via the toe of the Italian boot.

Russia turned the tables on Germany, stopped the German summer offensive cold and have driven the German armies in headlong retreat all the way back through the Ukraine nearly to the old Russian border of Poland.

Then, recently, came the meeting at Moscow between United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Russian Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. Both Hull and Eden conferred with Stalin and set the the pattern for future progress of the war against Germany and on the restoration of Axis occupied countries after an Allied victory.

But the biggest news of 1943 has not yet been told. It is in the making, however. Its nature will be another great turning point in World War II for the Allied nations. The world will read about it in smashing headlines before Christmas.

If any date could be set this column's guess would be that Dec. 7 of this year will be a headache for Japan of proportions greater even than Tojo's stab in the back at Pearl Harbor. This time the Allied nations will be at bat.

Where's all the "likker"?

Thats' the $64 question now when any two people get together. Even congress, with all its other worries, is asking about the sudden drought that has left nothing but wines and cheap rums on the shelves of most liquor stores. In fact, the scarcity of liquor, and the sudden evaporation of most known brands, has got under senatorial skins.

They want to know why you can't get even a bottle of anything short of "cooking whiskey" without a liquor seller being your best friend.

The senators are worried about the possible return of a condition as bad as exitsed under prohibition when crime reached its highest peak in the nation's history.

The result: they plan to crack down on those responsible for the present situation. They propose:

1—An investigation by a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee.

2—A proposal to cut from eight to four years the time in which liquor may be held under bond in warehouses free of tax.

Leaders of the investigation are Senators Scrugham (D) of Nevada and Van Nuys (D) of Indiana, chairman of the senate judiciary committee. Senator Walter George (D) of Georgia, chairman of the finance committee, is behind the move to cut the tax-free time on bonded liquors in half. George wants to force more liquor out of warehouses. The Scrugham-Van Nuys inquiry promises to explode a lot of dynamite.

Army and navy officers in Washington are pleased with recent Japanese propaganda claims that their forces have scored smashing victories over Allied sea and air forces in the South and Southwest Pacific.

Japan always has exaggerated battle results in its own favor but never with such fantastic claims as those emanating recently from the Tokyo radio for home consumption and for the world.

One claim said that Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., recently lost his whole South Pacific fleet of 110 ships. American losses for the entire war are not much greater than that.

No one knows exactly what is in the Jap mind, but the best explanation offered by persons who should know is that the enemy is having trouble at home and is trying to keep up morale with great victory claims.

The real facts are that the American claims in air victories really are conservative. United States pilots returning from the South Pacific have "griped" over the fact that they virtually have to bring back a Jap pilot's goggles or pants before they are given credit for a victory.

Congress And President

Washington, Dec. 2.

EVIDENCE that with a clear party majority in both branches President Roosevelt now has completely lost control of Congress is too clear and too important to be ignored. From various quarters recently the fact has been pointed out and, of course, interpreted in various ways.

THERE ARE, naturally, widely separated views. By the New Dealers, fourth termers and certain White House selected journalists and radio commentators a campaign, apparently, has been inaugurated to convince the country that Congress is composed mostly of moronic and selfish men who disregarding the interests of the country, are yielding weakly to the pressure groups. They are depicted as "defying" a great President, rejecting his sound recommendations in domestic matters to further their individual political fortunes. Without attempting justification of either the votes or the attitude of Congress this is by no means an accurate picture. On the contrary there is solid ground for the statement that the basic reasons the President's influence has evaporated and his proposals no longer carry weight in Congress are the disbelief and distrust with which Congress is today saturated—disbelief in the soundness of the Roosevelt domestic policies and distrust of the competency of his administration—and, in some instances, of his sincerity.

IT MUST be admitted that there is considerable data upon which to sustain this feeling. For example it is impossible to contend that at any time since the war began have the President or his Secretary of the Treasury presented an adequate and non-political taxation program. Instead, they have fumbled and fiddled until the sheer futility of getting the right kind of approach to this vital matter has discouraged a Congress that at one time unequestionably would have responded to firm, clear-headed leadership. Exactly the same thing applies to the Roosevelt fight to control inflation. At no time has Mr. Roosevelt had the kind of labor policy to justify faith in the firmness of his purpose. His long resistance to the desire of Congress to enact real anti-strike legislation and the almost abject way in which he has yielded to the threats and pressure of the professional labor lobbyists are matters of record and largely responsible for the lack of faith in him that exists in Congress today.

THE INCAPACITY of the OPA the OWI and other agencies, the obvious fourth-term maneuvers such as the patronage handouts to the supporting city bosses, and the almost incredible waste of money have contributed greatly to widening the breach and rendering hollow the New Deal indictment of Congress as moronic and unpatriotic in dissenting from certain Presidential proposals. On the subject of waste resentment has been greatly increased by the extraordinary statement of Senator Butler of Nebraska, of the shocking pouring of American funds into Central and South America in the effort to create "good will."

DESPITE THE denial of Vice-President Wallace (who is not a disinterested witness) and some question as to Mr. Butler's figures, there seems slight doubt of the truthfulness of his story as a whole; not that, in the main, it reflects the feeling of American diplomats in South America who know the facts and are in position to judge the effect. There certainly is some ground for asserting that we have poured an unprecedented amount of money into these countries, that a great deal of it has been wasted and that the results, Mr. Wallace notwithstanding, have been negligible. Add all these things together plus the symptoms noted in the 1942 and 1943 elections of a growing distaste for the New Deal generally, and the situation in Congress is easy to understand. The effort to blame it on the Republicans just does not hold water in view of the House vote, for example, on the bill to ban subsidies urged by the President. On that issue seventy-eight more Democrats voted against the President than voted with him. Congress, it is true, is not displaying either great intelligence or breadth of view, but without White House leadership, that is too much to expect.

IT WOULD be fine if it could be done, but under our system and with this kind of administration, it just is not one of the practical possibilities. The plain truth is that at the moment the President's recommendations carry little weight in a Congress which he should be able to control. To some extent this is due to the feeling that Mr. Roosevelt is bored with domestic problems and so far as he can has delegated them to his aides. There is also the fact that Congress has acquired the feeling that the frequent Presidential messages which it receives are written by Judge Sam Rosenman, and that Mr. Roosevelt really knows very little about them. Although, it is a bad state of affairs. Our system of government can be reduced to almost complete futility when the President and Congress are at odds. It does not function; it just bogs down, and it is not surprising that thoughtful men are disturbed over the prospect.

'43 SEED POTATO CROP IS ALL-TIME RECORD IN STATE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—Profiting by the shortage of certified seed potatoes last spring, Pennsylvania growers of certified stock have produced an all-time record crop for 1944 planting, K. W. Lauer, in charge of seed certification in the Bureau of Plant Industry, State Department of Agriculture, said today.

Farmers and victory gardeners will have available for next spring's planting more than 307,000 bushels of Pennsylvania certified seed potatoes or 86,500 bushels more than this year.

While nearly half of the total acreage entered for inspection this year was rejected by state inspectors because the fields did not meet disease-free requirements, the crop produced is said by Lauer to be of excellent quality.

More than two-thirds of the 1943 certified seed potato crop for this year was grown in Potter county. Rainfall and growing conditions in that section were favorable, and production for the county was 210,613 bushels. Somerset ranked second with 22,920 bushels and Lehigh third with 11,025 bushels. Other counties in which seed was certified are: Berks, Bradford, Butler Cambria, Carbon, Crawford, Elk, Erie, Indiana, Lackawanna, Mercer, Monroe, Sullivan, Tioga, Warren, Wyoming and York.

The total crop is described by Lauer as uniform and comparatively free from disease. The average yield per acre was 260 bushels, or 31 bushels per acre more than last year. Varieties certified in order of total production are: Russet, Rural, Katahdin, White Rural, Sebago, Chippewa, Houma, Sequoia, Nittany Cobbler, Irish Cobbler and Mesaba.

Growers entered 2,115 acres for certification this year, and 1,183 acres survived all inspections, compared with 885 acres in 1942. A list of all Pennsylvania growers of certified seed potatoes is available to farmers and others on request to the Bureau of Plant Industry.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

Post 6-2 of the Wardens service had a very enjoyable party at their post on Sampson street, Tuesday night, November 30th. Mr. John Hitch, senior warden, had a program arranged, that ran until late. Mr. F. T. Sargent, Mr. D. O. Davies and Mrs. Jane M Cochran, of the City OCD, were present and were called upon for remarks and comments. Mr. Sargent explained the mobilization called by State Council of Defense for December 15. This was followed by motion pictures which lasted for a couple of hours, after which a very refreshing lunch was served by the ladies of the post.

During the latter part of November many groups of the OCD were on the alert, listening for the whistles to blow announcing an air raid drill because the State Council of Defense and representatives of the Service Command had announced that Pennsylvania would have two drills in the month of November.

The daylight alert was held earlier in the month. As no night drill had been ordered all persons connected were expecting such a drill any night. They were on the alert, ready to do the job assigned to them if the signal had sounded.

These drills are now ordered by army only. It may have been omitted purposely because the State Council of Defense advertised that it would be held thus taking the surprise element out of the drill. Therefore all persons connected with OCD should stay on the alert and be prepared for these signals to sound any time.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

they would not be likely to revolt on any large scale immediately after the talk. To assume that they would do so would be to endow them with the Latin temperament. They are precisely the opposite.

Prime Minister Churchill in his recent talk, expressed the opinion that the Russian campaign had inflicted wounds "that may prove mortal" to the German army. But he pointed out that the Nazis still have about four hundred divisions. It is doubtful if any other country in the world, except perhaps Russia, has that many soldiers in the field. An army of that size is capable of doing a great deal of damage to any enemy, provided it is obtaining the equipment necessary to maintain it.

No Allied leader is going to make the mistake of predicting an easy or an early victory. To do so would bring about an immediate let-down of effort that could be disastrous. But, by the same token, while the German army still may be numerically strong, it does not necessarily follow that it will fight to the last man, despite Hitler's pledge to that effect.

The whole situation boils down to this: Germany is reeling, but still capable of doing much damage, and now, therefore, is the time to deliver our hardest blows, hoping that one of them will bring about a knockout. It cannot be done if we pull our punches or start thinking too much about an early victory. Germany knows this and would like us to believe that we can relax. Consequently, while the climax may be comparatively near, we would be wise to ignore that probability and smash as though the German army never had suffered a defeat. Victory is within our grasp. Let's hope we do not talk ourselves out of it.

Nurses Aides Work Discussed Here At Special Conference

Large Number Representing Surrounding Counties Present; Commend Nurses Aides

An open discussion of Red Cross nurses aides problems was the purpose of a special all day meeting conducted in the First Presbyterian church here on Wednesday, December 1, when representatives of surrounding counties met with officials from the eastern area. New Castle unit presided as hostesses, with Mrs. John Elliott, chairman of special volunteer service, giving the welcoming address. Mrs. Harry Barkby, chairman of nurses aides of Lawrence county, also welcomed the large assemblage.

Morning sessions were conducted by Mrs. Bertha B. Jones, nursing service director and special advisor of nurses aides, and Mrs. Edward P. Curtis, assistant administrator in charge of nurses aides from Alexandria, Va. Miss Abbyd Whidden, nursing consultant for western Pennsylvania, located at Alexandria, Va., also spoke.

Attention was given to the work of the Red Cross nurses aides, the importance of their work for the duration, and the systems carried out. An exchange of ideas pertaining to schedules followed by the various counties and helpful hints were exchanged at this meeting. The percentage of active members was also noted. New Castle, which has graduated six classes, and Ellwood City which has two graduated classes to its credit, have an exceedingly high rating in hours turned in and cooperation shown. Continued assistance is urged of this particular wartime group, as the number of registered nurses is steadily increasing, it was stated.

Others of the hostess group heard from included Miss Prudence Appleman, director of nurses at Jameson Memorial hospital; Miss Mary Walton, clinical supervisor of the same institution; Miss Mary Lee Bell, assistant instructor in nursing art at the New Castle hospital, and Mrs. Holt, director of Ellwood City. Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Barkby gave an insight of the program followed in Lawrence countyq.

New Castle nurses aides were represented by Mrs. H. E. Rappold, chairman of Nurses Aides Association at Jameson Memorial hospital, and Mrs. Frances Colao, who represented Miss Rose Uhl, chairman of New Castle Association of Aides.

A special conference was called by Mrs. Jones with direct heads of the counties for a more detailed discussion of the pros and cons of nurses aides work.

Luncheon was served in the church dining room at 12:30 o'clock by a local unit of the Red Cross Canteen with Mrs. Edwin Willmarth chairman.

Registrations were taken at 9:30 o'clock by Mrs. Thomas Kelly and Mrs. James Foster, with the conference beginning at 10 o'clock.

Afternoon sessions were resumed at 1:30, and in closing at 3:30, a special impromptu conference was conducted by Mrs. Jones with leaders of nurses aides of the various counties represented.

ARMY OFFICER GOES ON TRIAL

GEORGETOWN, Del., Dec. 2.—(INS)—Carl Moulinie, 38-year-old army warrant officer, will go on trial today at Georgetown for the love-triangle slaying of his fellow warrant officer and erstwhile best friend, John H. Worthington.

Moulinie, a naturalized citizen who was born in the French islands off Madagascar, was indicted for first degree murder yesterday. The Sussex county grand jury voted a true bill, after three hours and 20 minutes deliberation, on the testimony of Worthington's 25-year-old wife, Elaine. The state contends that Mrs. Worthington has admitted intimate relations with Moulinie.

Worthington was shot and killed in his Rehoboth Beach home a month ago after a 10-hour drinking party. Every officer at Fort Miles, where Worthington and Moulinie were stationed, has chipped in to a fund to pay the defense counsel.

GIRL SCOUTS

Clen-Moore Troop 22 held their court of awards Tuesday evening at the school. Shirley Hoch and Elaine Chapman displayed their patrol flags. Some of the younger girls dressed dolls from foreign lands. All of the girls have passed their second class work and are now second class scouts. The girls entertained their mothers later at a tea, and were very honored to have as their guest, Miss Marie C. Hay, the girl scout executive.

Refreshments were served at a later hour at a beautifully arranged table carrying out the girl scout colors, by Mrs. N. J. McCluskey and her aids, Mrs. M. C. Rainier, Mrs. J. T. Allen and Mrs. C. C. Dean.

BARGE SINKS

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 2.—(INS)—After burning furiously for six hours, a barge loaded with 4,000 gallons of fuel oil sank in the Brandywine river at Wilmington today.

A spark from a welder's torch set the cargo ablaze. Two crewmen, trapped in a cabin, escaped injury by leaping into the river. Both were pulled from the water by coast guardsmen.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Child Could Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it can't be beaten.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. No cooking needed. It's no trouble.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, and makes breathing easy. If not pleased, your money will be refunded.

See Confusion On Package Deliveries During Holidays

Suggestions To Holiday Shoppers Are Made By O.D.T. And G.N.C.A. Official

"Confusion and disappointment" in package deliveries for Christmas are bound to occur this season unless the public co-operates, warned Harry G. Boyd of the Office of Defense Transportation, and Roger W. Jewett, executive vice president of the Greater New Castle Association today.

Some suggestions on how to help in the Christmas rush were made by the two agencies mentioned. They are:

Shop now and avoid the rush.

Carry your own packages.

Be patient with stores in delivery service.

Be reasonable.

Ship all Christmas packages destined to other cities by December 10.

Ride buses in hours when workers are not filling them.

Under O.D.T. regulations, stores are restricted from delivering packages which weigh less than five pounds or are less than 60 inches in girth and length combined.

Mr. Jewett said that retail establishments in the New Castle area were making deliveries in the same neighborhoods only twice a week.

Both gentlemen appealed to the public to co-operate to lessen confusion which is bound to occur as Christmas draws near.

New Pay Demands Being Presented

C.I.O. Committee Approves Demand For 21 Per Cent Wage Increases

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—(INS)—The United Steel Workers' wage and policy committee resumed study of its new contract program in Pittsburgh today after approving a demand for a 21 per cent wage increase for more than a half-million union members.

CIO-USW President Philip Murray said the vote was unanimous. He revealed also that all the new contract proposals in final form as approved by the committee, will be mailed Monday to 485 plants now holding union agreements.

Besides the wage increase proposal, which would pierce the "little steel" ceiling already broken by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, the program calls for dismissal pay up to the equivalent of eight weeks work when a plant or a part of it is closed permanently. Some observers saw in this clause a "cushion" to meet unemployment that might result when war orders are canceled with the return of peace.

Another innovation is the demand for a guaranteed weekly wage, based on a 40-hour week, "during the life of this contract".

The present base rate is 78 cents an hour. The union demands 95 cents.

Renewal of present vacation schedules is asked.

Present time-and-a-half pay begins after 40 hours of work. The union asks extra pay for the sixth and seventh days of the week and after 40 hours.

The present contract sets no time limits on grievance settlements. The new program demands a limit.

The most radical departure from the present contract structure is the demand for severance pay—four weeks for men employed between one and three years, and eight weeks for men employed between more than three years, if a plant shuts down permanently.

Some demands may be revised observers believed, when conferences with management get started to pave the way for smooth negotiations.

The port of Montreal, Quebec, Canada, is the second largest seaport in America.

Helicopter Taxi Service Forecast

Pittsburgh Concern Asks Sanction For Service After End Of War

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—(INS)—With an eye to the future, a Pittsburgh concern today asked the public utility commission to sanction a helicopter taxi service after the war.

The request was made by the Yellow Cab Company and the commission said a hearing on the application would be held soon.

The taxi company said it planned to commence service with one or more helicopters as soon as they were available. Landing facilities would be provided in downtown Pittsburgh, it informed the commission, to permit air taxi service similar to that now provided on the ground.

The cab company said helicopters would reduce the traveling time from downtown Pittsburgh to the Allegheny County airport by 20 to 25 minutes and to the new airport near Corapolis by about 30 minutes.

The company asserted that the proposed service would be similar to that which will be furnished other large American cities and surrounding suburban territory as soon as helicopters are made available for commercial use.

No rates or fares to be charged could be furnished yet, the firm added, until the price of helicopters and the cost of operation were determined.

FLIER IS KILLED

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 2.—(INS)—Eleventh naval district officials today investigated the cause of a mid-air plane collision which killed Lieut. Charles Jackson, 29-year-old Navy flier of Cleveland, Ohio.

The pilot of the other plane whose name was withheld, parachuted to safety.

SHARP INCREASE IN TRAFFIC TOLL

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—A sharp increase in the nation's traffic deaths—18 percent in October—was recorded as the first rise since wartime travel restrictions were imposed.

The National Safety Council reported it was the first break in a downward trend that began shortly after Pearl Harbor. No precise reason was apparent, but Donald S. Berry, director of the organization's traffic and transportation division, suggested several possible contributing factors.

He stated there were indications that many drivers now had a tendency to disregard wartime traffic caution, in the optimistic belief that victory is in the offing. He added that there may have been a recent increase in motoring.

He pointed out, too, that the figures on the upturn were provided by a comparison of fatalities of October of this year and October, 1942, when the 35-mile speed limit went into effect and when the toll showed a record drop of 47 percent.

"But none of these factors can alter the fact that the October increase provided a definite proof that even wartime restrictions are no automatic solution to the nation's traffic safety problem," Berry said. America has cashed in on the bonus savings in human life that accompanied these restrictions, and any future reductions in the traffic toll must be earned the hard way."

Fatalities on streets and highways numbered 2430 in October. But the total for the first ten months of 1943—18,110—represented a 20 percent decrease from the same 1942 period.

Things work out. The post-war home will be so full of wonders that only a lady with machine-shop training could manage it.

"DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND"

BOSTON — (INS) — Evangelist William H. Henderson finds historic Boston Common "the devil's playground". Tragedy stalks there, he reported to the Evangelistic Association of New England. Henderson, a top sergeant in the last war, patrols the Common for nearby Park street church, under the auspices of the Evangelistical Association. In his report the evangelist said he was approached by seven women in two hours and saw hundreds of teen-age girls starting for trouble.

Senator Guffey Has Lottery Plan

Asks Treasury To Report On His New Bill To Raise Funds In Lottery

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Sen. Joseph F. Guffey (D) Pa., today asked the treasury—seeking ten and a half billion dollars in additional taxes—to report on his new bill for a lottery which he believes will produce five billion dollars annually.

Guffey, deadly serious in his proposal, also plans to raise the issue in the senate finance committee which is considering revision of the house-approved two billion, 139 million dollar tax bill. He is a member of the committee.

The scheme is simple. He would give people a chance to make contributions to the government to help finance the war in the form of $2 certificates. Periodically ,the treasury would hold a drawing.

The first prize for the holder of the lucky serial number—carried on a certificate stub—would be $50,000. Other prizes would range down to $100.

"I call it an incentive bill to give rewards," said Guffey. "You can call it a lottery if you want to, but I won't.

"The people are anxious to help in the war. They already have made many conditional gifts to the treasury to buy bombers and other weapons. They would have a chance for a reward.

"With this bill you wouldn't have to have a sales tax and you won't kill horse-racing by the tax proposed by the house."

Guffey's finance committee colleagues were skeptical of the bill, but they began to worry over holding the revenue in the house bill as well as increasing it.

Salvation Army Contacts Students

Envelopes Being Distributed To Children In City And County Schools

In preparation for their campaign for the funds needed at Christmas time to provide assistance for the most needy, the Salvation Army is today distributing envelopes to the children in the schools of the city and county.

All who return these envelopes with a contribution, no matter how great or small, will receive a free copy of the Christmas edition of the War Cry, the Salvation Army magazine.

At a meeting of the advisory board of the Salvation Army, it was decided to place the Salvation Army kettles at strategic locations to receive contributions of the public on December 11 and December 13. A few days later they will be put out every day until Christmas.

It has been found that there are a number of elderly people who will need assistance at Christmas time, people who receive old age assistance, which at the present time is not enough to more than provide them a bare subsistence.

They were brought to the Jameson Memorial hospital at 2:15 p. m., and after receiving treatment were able to be taken to their homes.

The Sin of Covetousness

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Consider the lilies.

"Thou shalt not covet . . . anything that is thy neighbor's."
—Exodus 20:17.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 5 is Exodus 20:17; Luke 12-13-34, the Golden Text being Exodus 20:17, "Thou shalt not covet . . . anything that is thy neighbor's.")

"Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's."

Covetousness, envy, being discontented with our own lives and possessions so much that we want the things our friend or neighbor has and try to get them, even to the point of stealing, is one of the greatest of sins because it leads to others. It may lead even to murder, if it is not crushed in the heart of the envious person.

Nations are envious as well as persons. This terrible war in which we are embroiled really was brought on by envy—great nations coveting the possessions of other nations, not being content with their own, and being willing to murder and torture the inhabitants of the other lands for the things they owned.

It really was covetousness, or love of money, that made Judas Iscariot betray his Lord and Master for a few paltry dollars—about $15. It probably seemed like wealth to him, but what did the possession of the money mean to him when he had it? Nothing, and less than nothing. When he realized what he had done and how unspeakably vile was his action, he wanted to give the money back, and in despair he took his own life.

Man Covets Inheritance

Luke tells us that while Jesus was teaching, a man who was in the company came to Him and said, "Master, speak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me." Whether this man's claim against his brother was just or not we do not know. He was evidently wild with envy of his brother who had more than he. That inheritance seemed to him more important than anything else in the world, and he was going to try every way he could think of to get some of it. Jesus' reply was a rebuke to that envious spirit: "Man, who made me a judge or a divider over you?" And to the others He said, "Take heed and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

If we could only remember that. We may possess all the riches of the earth. We may ride in a high-priced car, have marvelous clothes, live in a beautiful house, but be unutterably miserable. On the other hand, we may be what the world calls miserably poor in worldly goods, and be superbly rich in the things that really matter—in health love, content, the joy of living.

To illustrate this, Jesus told a parable. There was a man, said He, who was rich. He had much land and the land bore a wonderful harvest, so large a harvest, in fact, that his barns would not store it all.

He looked at the barns and wondered what he should do, and decided that he would tear them down and build larger ones. Then he would stop working and "eat, drink and be merry," for the rest of his life.

His Soul Required

But God said to him, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be which thou hast provided?" Whose indeed! He could not take them with him: all he could take to that other world was his soul, and that soul of his looked very poor indeed.

"So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God," said Jesus.

Jesus taught us that we should not worry about things we do not have or that we fear we will not have. We may make ourselves unhappy, even ill, fretting about providing food, clothes, housing, etc. Jesus told His followers not to do this. "Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on."

He reminded them of the ravens—the whole crow tribe—who do not sow nor harvest, and have no barns to store food, yet they are fed; "How much more are ye better than the fowls?"

"Consider the lilies how they grow; they toil not, they spin not, and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

If God, then so clothes the grass of the field which tomorrow is "cast into the oven, how much more will He clothe you, O ye of little faith!"

If human beings could only learn this lesson. Work, provide for ourselves and families as well as we can, and then trust God that all will be well. We may never be rich or powerful, and if we were we might not be happy, but if we have this trust in Our Father, we can lead good, unselfish lives, sharing what we have with others, not envying any man, but living serenely in that trust.

I'M DOING MY BEST to make the intricacies of war-time food buying as simple as possible for you.

Senator Declares Green-Lucas Bill Faces Court Test

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Sen. Eastland (D) Miss., declared today that the Green-Lucas bill permitting voting by members of the armed forces overseas is plainly unconstitutional and will face a supreme court test.

As the senate neared a final vote on the measure, Eastland told his colleagues that "the bill takes control of elections away from the state and should be thrown out now".

He urged adoption of a resolution introduced by himself and Sens. McKellar (D) Tenn., and McClellan (D) Ark. The resolution provided that the states handle absentee balloting by a postcard system with the war and navy departments aiding in distribution and collection of the postcard ballots as agents of the states.

The whole plan would then operate under the absentee balloting law of 46 states. Two states have no absentee voting law.

Opposing the measure now being considered, Eastland asserted, "this bill would make a criminal out of every precinct election official in the U. S.

"If he counted a ballot under the Green-Lucas bill he would be subject to fine and prison sentence under state law. If he failed to count a ballot he would be subject to substantially the same penalty under the proposed bill."

APPROVAL HELD UP

To My Many Friends:

I wish to thank the following: Mrs. M. M. Ingham and the Wimodausis Club for cakes, coffee and service to the patients and officers of the hospital after the performance.

Miss Dorothy Robison, Miss Nannie Mitcheltree, Tom Holliday, Miss Agnes Cartwright, Mrs. Paul Melvin, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Preston, W. W. Campbell, Robert Love and Robert Rape for buying tickets for some of the patients from the hospital; Station WKST, the Consistory Service Club for ushering, Richard Rentz for publicity and many others who helped to make the attraction such a success.

I am very proud of New Castle because she made such a favorable comparison in gross business with Los Angeles and Seattle with $3,100 and $2,700 total and ours was over $1,700. So we have done it again. More money was made at this performance than has ever been made in any single concert . . . . we have had fine music at a profit. Many thanks to our fellow merchants who co-operated so nicely with newspaper advertising.

Sincerely,
MRS. ROBERT E. FLEMING.

STATE PROGRAM BEING PLANNED

Hehabilitation Program For Servicemen To Be Submitted To Postwar Commission

By TONY ZECCA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—A comprenensive state program for rehabilitating servicemen is being prepared today for submission to the postwar planning commission.

Executive Director Mark S. James revealed that the plans include hospitalization, education and employment. "Before we are finished," he declared, "our plans will be in such shape that the veterans will be well taken care of." He added that some legislation may be necessary.

James pointed out that the primary aim would be employment. "We are interested in steady jobs for the veterans and not public works projects," he asserted. The official explained that most of the public projects were, in some respects, "doles" which would provide only temporary relief.

He pointed out that the aim of the planners was to steer the veterans into private industry where they could find steady employment.

"Although there will be reconversion from wartime to peacetime production, we are going to see that industry carries on 100 per cent so that it can continue to employ these people," he asserted.

Mason said that vocational schools, which have been working on accelerated programs to train war workers, will be asked to educate veterans so that they will be able to assume industrial jobs. He said arrangements for academic education also will be made.

Complete details of the program will not be made public, he explained, until the 10-member commission is appointed by Gov. Edward Martin. Meanwhile the plans are being drafted so that they will be ready when the nation's military forces are demobilized.

Blessed is the poor man. He fixes his own oil furnace, while the rich guy is helpless without an expert to "service" his.

CONSIDER PLAN OF DISTRIBUTING REFUNDED TAX

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—(INS)—A nine-member sub-committee of the joint state government commission prepared today to launch a study of methods used by counties in distributing the half-cent gasoline tax refunded by the commonwealth. The money is earmarked for highway improvements.

Speaker of the House Ira T. Fiss, chairman of the bi-partisan legislative research body, said the committee had named Rep. Baker Royer (R), Lancaster, as chairman and Sen. John J. Snowden (R), Lycoming, vice chairman.

Fiss explained that "the committee wants to know how the counties distribute the tax and may make possible recommendations for improvement to the General Assembly in 1945".

The committee is composed of Representatives Royer, Wrayburn Hall (R) Potter, Thomas Lyons (R) Mercer, Lambert Cadwalader (R) Montgomery, John F. Stank (D) Northumberland, and Senators Snowden, M. Harvey Taylor (R) Dauphin, Edwin S. Bowers (R) Fayette and J. K. McQuiddy (D) Lawrence.

Fifty New Ships Added In Month On East Coast

This was announced today by J. F. McInnis, regional director of construction, U. S. maritime commission. The 50 ships included six tankers from the Sun Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., in Chester.

PROBE STORY 10,000 RATION BOOKS FOUND

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(INS)—The regional office of price administration ordered an investigation today of the story that 10,000 No. 1 war ration books were in a bundle of waste paper from Chicago reported found by workmen down in Marseilles, Ill.

The shoe coupons were still good and OPA officials were told there had been a mad scramble for the books after which the shoe stores thereabouts practically were mobbed.

Airplane Route Planned After War In This District

Application Made For Line To Include New Castle To State Commission

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—(INS)—The Public Utility Commission announced today that a hearing will be held December 6 at Pittsburgh on the first application received for the operation of an airplane freight and passenger service after the war.

The application was filed by Russell V. Trader, operating as the Land and Water Air-Service, Allegheny county airport, Mifflin township.

Trader proposed to carry passengers and freight over definite routes and to operate charter and call-and-demand service from Pittsbrgh by using 10 aircraft, the commission asserted.

Trader has operated charter contract service from the Pittsburgh Municipal airport for the past three years, using both land and water landing facilities, but due to the war has been unable to continue the development of his business.

The proposed routes are: from Pittsburgh north along Allegheny river, including Warren, Meadville and Cambridge Springs; from Pittsburgh along the Monongahela and Youghiogheny rivers to Connellsville, Uniontown and Confluence; from Pittsburgh along the Monongahela river to Point Marion, and from Pittsburgh along the Ohio and Beaver rivers to New Castle.

LESS TUBERCULOSIS

CHICAGO— (INS) —Eradication of tuberculosis is "within the realm of possibility," the Journal of the American Medical Association reports. The Journal pointed out that in 1940 the death rate from tuberculosis was less than one-fourth than at the beginning of the century. At present the mortality incidence is 45 per hundred thousand. The decline is attributed to the discovery of the causative organism and modes of transmission of the disease and results of improvements in the standard of living.

SHOOTS DEER FROM PORCH

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Sixteen-year-old Curtiss Geiger of Speeceville R. D. 2, near Harrisburg, proved today that it pays to look in your own back yard although it may not always contain an acre of diamonds.

After returning from a two-day deer hunting trip in Potter county empty handed, he spied a 187-pound buck from his back porch and brought it down with his rifle only a stone's throw from home.

WANT MORE MEN FOR STATE GUARD

Full Company Of Guard Is Allotted To New Castle; Major Hill Announces

Men who are over age for the armed forces or have been deferred for various reasons and still would like to have a part in the military scheme of things, now have the opportunity, Major Frank W. Hill of the State Guard said today.

In an expansion program now in effect, the state has five regiments instead of three, and New Castle has been allotted a full company, to be known as Company F, 5th regiment, and the regimental band.

Men between 17 and 50 are eligible, with physical restrictions not as rigid as the Army or Navy. The State Guard offers an opportunity to serve on the home front, and enlistments are now open.

Major Hill is the county controller of this county and can be reached in his office in the court house daily. He is desirous of filling the companies here to strength, and men interested in the State Guard service are asked to get in touch with him.

Dog Makes Trip Of 385 Miles To Reach Old Home

PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Dec. 2.—(INS)—He's not a P-47 Thunderbolt or a Grumman Hellcat for speed, but Pete, a four-year-old Pomeranian usually gets where he wants to go.

Mrs. Mary Kane attested this today by explaining how the tiny canine, long on hair but short on legs, completed a 385-mile trip from Norfolk, Va., to Patchogue, L. I., in three weeks.

How the dog made the trip Mrs. Kane doesn't venture to say but unless he developed into a mute hitchhiker, he covered a sizeable portion of the country and crossed almost a score of rivers to return to the town he had known in his puppyhood.

According to Mrs. Kane, the dog is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Staud, former residents, of Patchogue. The Stauds moved to Virginia about two years ago.

Recently, Mrs. Staud made a trip to Patchogue and Pete disappeared from his Norfolk home. He was not seen again until Mrs. Kane, a close friend of the family, found him wet and shivering on a Patchogue street.

Today Pete was safely crated and on his way back to Norfolk—this time by train.

DOMESTIC ANIMAL FOOD REGULATIONS IN EFFECT FEB. 16

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—Every kind of domestic animal food, including horse meat and mule meat offered for sale in Pennsylvania must be registered with, and all dealers in the state duly licensed by the Department of Agriculture to sell such foods on and after next February 16, according to new rules and regulations announced today by Miles Horst, state secretary of agriculture.

"The order protects the public from unknowingly buying horse meat or mule meat and avoids the possibility of such meats being used for human consumption," th secretary said. "Every container, parcel or other package of domestic animal foods containing these meats or animal meat by-products, used for feeding dogs, cats and other domestic animals must be labeled in accordance with the state feeding stuffs law.

"Each bag, parcel or other package containing such animal food must have affixed thereto, in a conspicuous place on the outside of the package and in large type, the notation that the contents are sold as 'Animal Food—Not for Human Consumption'."

The new regulations are issued under provision of the feeding stuffs law of 1909, administered by the Bureau of Foods and Chemistry Any person or firm handling domestic animal foods in violation of the order after February 16 will be subject to prosecution under the act. Copies are being distributed to producers this week so they may have sufficient time to register their products for 1944.

Secretary Horst pointed out that it is unlawful to offer for sale horse meat or mule meat in any form in Pennsylvania for human consumption. Under the new order it will be unlawful to prepare domestic animal foods containing horse meat or mule meat in any manner whatsoever, in any establishment where food for human consumption is prepared handled, stored or sold. It will also be unlawful to permit such products to be kept or stored in a duly licensed cold storage warehouse.

Domestic animal feeds containing horse or mule meat may be sold in establishments handling foods for human consumption only when dried, sterilized and packaged, or in hermetically sealed containers.

Aluminum Workers Seek Wage Increase

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—(INS)—The Aluminum Workers of America put pressure behind their proposed demand for a 15-cents-an-hour wage increase today with a plea that federal restrictions be lifted from production of aluminum ware for civilians.

N. A. Zonarich, the union's international president, declared he saw indications that some operations will curtail schedules on war work, resulting in layoffs unless partial civilian production is resumed.

"We are told," he argued, "that the metal (aluminum) for such civilian production is available. We know the labor is available."

COURT RULES OPA NEEDS SUBPOENA TO ENTER HOMES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Los Angeles Office of Price Administration officials looked to their superiors in Washington for a decision on whether to fight one of the most important rulings made in any federal court since OPA operations were begun.

In a record-making decision Federal Judge Pierson M. Hall ruled that the OPA has no right, either in a civil or criminal case, to go into a man's place of business, or his home, and there examine or take from him records of his business or his personal records.

Judge Hall held that like other law agencies the OPA must obtain its evidence through subpoena and based his entire ruling on provisions of the U. S. constitution and the bill of rights.

SOARING DIVORCE RATE IS PROBLEM

By MARTHA KEARNEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—An outstanding authority on juvenile delinquency said today that the nation's prime social problem and contributory factor to adolescent crime was a soaring divorce rate.

Judge Paul Alexander of Toledo, Ohio, president of the association of juvenile court judges, declared that soldiers on furlough are adding to the volume of divorce cases by seeking the dissolution of brief and hasty "gin weddings".

"Judges hold court at all sorts of odd hours to hold hearings at servicemen's convenience," he said. "Unfortunately the young people are not any wiser after the divorce. They carry away with them the impression that divorce is quick and easy and subsequent marriages have little chance for success in the face of that attitude."

Alexander, who completed his testimony before a Senate subcommittee studying juvenile delinquency estimates that divorce cases constitute about 75-percent of the total business before civil courts in the United States.

Research was established the fact that industrial cities have particularly high divorce statistics. Alexander is convinced that the greatest single factor in this situation is the wartime industrial employment of women.

"Temporary financial independence has in too many cases destroyed the will to build a successful marriage," he said. "This not only injuries the woman's chances for permanent happiness but it makes her adjustment to a normal postwar life almost impossible.

Asserts Japs Will Fight 100 Years

Correspondent Returning From Interment Says Japs Ready For Long War

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 2.—(INS)—Royal Arch Gunnison, Manila correspondent for the Mutual Broadcasting System, said Wednesday on his return to America aboard the Gripsholm, that the Jap is ready and prepared to fight a hundred years' war.

"When he says a hundred years he means just that," said Gunnison. "He means that even when the fighting ceases, in a physical sense the Jap will continue to fight economically and on the propaganda front against the foreigners, the westerners, in the Pacific and in Asia, until he eventually drives us out."

Gunnison returned with his wife. He spoke over a MBS microphone from the pier at Jersey City immediately on alighting from the exchange ship.

"The Jap is going to be hard to beat," he declared. "He will be just as difficult as the German at his worst. Don't forget the Jap was prepared for this war and he has a navy which the Germans haven't. He's ready for the real fighting to come."

"Don't you believe we'll smash the Jap so he won't be able to fight again?" Gunnison was asked.

"I know we'll smash the Jap," he replied firmly, but added, "Japan is a rubber ball nation. Once you slap it down it bounces right up again. Our job is to smash it down, catch it quickly on the rebound and place it firmly on the earth with a controlling hand constantly upon it."

Gunnison said that "lack of nutritious food, lack of proper hospitalization and proper medicine, the general filth and finally the brutal Jap attitude" were the worst features of internment."

IT'S 'LITTLE BOSTON'

WASHINGTON — (INS)—Americans have a nickname for New Caledonia, the little sugar-shaped island in the South Pacific. It's "Little Boston". Lieut. Col. Leo J. Langan, of the Quartermasters Corps, learned of it while recently touring the far-away island for the Army Service Forces. He also found out the reason. It's because troops of the American Division are largely composed of New England units, most of whom hail directly from the Boston area.

BOY IS KILLED

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 2.—(INS)—Eight-year-old David Mohnkern, Jr. of Oil City, was struck and killed by an automobile driven, police said, by Fay Schreckengost, also of Oil City.

Schreckengost told police the boy was walking along the sidewalk and then suddenly darted into the path of the car.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — (INS) — Walter Davis, night manager of a Pittsburgh restaurant, is a shrewd judge of character. When he saw two characters loitering outside his place he played safe and emptied his cash register. A short time later they held him up.

WHEN YOU FLIP THIS SWITCH—
Remember . . .

ORDINARILY, when you flip the switch that turns on your electric current for your lamps and electrical appliances, you need give no thought to resources you draw upon to get this service. These aren't ordinary times, we're all Victory minded.

The National Conservation Program depends for its success upon you to think when you "flip the switch."

Of course, you can't save electricity—it can't be stored, but if you use less, the need for critical materials and services required for the production of electricity is less. That saves coal, manpower, transportation and other war production facilities.

Remember, there is no shortage of electricity, but waste of it causes needless and wasteful use of the products and services that go into its production. Use what you need—but need what you use.

Let's Not Waste Electricity

1 Clean lamps and reflectors regularly to obtain maximum light for the current used.

2 Locate lamps so that light is directed upon the reading or working surface.

3 Check your electrical equipment to make sure it is operating efficiently. This will not only save power, but help to make your electrical equipment last longer.

4 Save service calls by having spare fuses handy—but—call the service man in the event of serious trouble in the circuits.

5 Remember that lights burning all night in the attic, cellar, or porch, lights that you may have forgotten to turn off, waste power, burn up a vital war material needlessly.

WHEN news of Pearl Harbor was flashed on December 7, 1941, a convoy loaded with planes lay in an eastern port.

Four and a half days later, these planes were on their way to Hawaii from a west coast port.

They had been rushed across the country on flat cars by your railroads.

Telegraph and telephone lines hummed with messages stopping eastbound trains loaded with war supplies and heading them west.

Troop trains were rolling when Congress met the next day for the declaration of war.

In the twelve months following, your railroads handled in special trains and special cars alone more than 1,600,000 troops and their equipment.

Today, your railroads are carrying approximately 2,000,000 members of the military forces a month.

All the necessities of war, plus the essential needs of our civilian population are pouring in a steady stream over the railroads.

Nearly 1,000,000 barrels of oil a day . . . millions of tons of coal . . . guns . . . tanks . . . jeeps . . . trucks . . . munitions . . . food . . . supplies . . . all are rolling over the rails.

With the valued help of shippers, the public, and government agencies, Erie and other American railroads are proving they are fast on the draw—in war as in peace—with the world's finest and most economical transportation.

Delinquency Of Juveniles Grows

Large Increase Is Reported In State By Secretary Of Welfare O'Hara

By JOHN PAGET
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—A 36 per cent increase in juvenile delinquency in Pennsylvania prompted Secretary of Welfare S. M. R. O'Hara today to outline initial plans for coordinating the correctional programs of various state and private agencies.

"Pennsylvania must coordinate all its forces to meet the wartime increase in juvenile delinquency," she declared. "The courts, the Department of Welfare, as well as the state's correctional institutions must cooperate in a program to curb youthful delinquents."

Miss O'Hara will attend a meeting at Philadelphia tomorrow of the Juvenile Court Association to discuss wartime problems.

"We must develop a training program in each of the correctional schools and have a clearly defined policy governing the release of boys and girls from these schools as well as a proper plan for granting paroles and subsequent supervision," Miss O'Hara stated.

Not As Bad As Some States

"We are not ready to release a breakdown of figures on juvenile delinquency in the state yet but we are able to disclose that, except for certain areas in Pennsylvania, the picture is not as bad as in other states."

Miss O'Hara said that crimes committed by juveniles embraced petty larceny, robbery, sex attacks, prostitution, homicides and the use of narcotics, "all of which increased in seriousness."

"The survey and ultimate control of juvenile delinquency is not the problem of any one agency," she asserted. "We must bring them all together before oiling the machinery to get a program moving."

The department currently is supervising more than 7200 young people, an increase of 36 per cent over 1942, in six state-operated correctional institutions, she revealed.

Miss O'Hara, who has had more than 30 years experienced with juvenile delinquents, said the department was handicapped by a lack of trained personnel.

"War makes it difficult to carry out our program because the men we want are not available," she said. "Naturally, you can't find a substitute for experience when dealing with young people who must be committed for training."

Broken homes, emotional instability, lack of supervision and lax local enforcement of liquor laws in some communities were blamed for the sharp increase in youthful delinquency.

CANCEL PERMITS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—(INS)—The Public Utility commission announced cancellation of 81 truck, bus and taxi cab permits today because the operators were tardy in paying 1939-40 assessments ranging from 31 cents to $786.93.

BELIEVE ROOSEVELT, CHURCHILL ANDSTALIN NOW IN CONFERENCE

ing the United Nations' treatment of the Nazi Reich when final victory is achieved.

Competent quarters interpret the Cairo conference and the reported meeting with Stalin as a definite sign that the Allies are both able and ready to inaugurate offensives simultaneously in several theaters of war.

Hasten Unconditional Surrender

The supreme objective of such huge, new synchronized strokes in both the western and eastern hemispheres was described as hastening the unconditional surrender of all the Axis foes.

Likewise, the meetings of the heads of the great Allied powers was described as a definite illustration of the grim determination of the democracies to stand staunchly together in the common struggle against oppression.

The historic Cairo conference at which it was decided to crush and punish Japan is expected to give new impetus to the entire war effort and encourage all of the United Nations to expedite the war through closely related grand-scale offensives in all combat areas in the near future.

While the exact measures decided upon must necessarily remain secret, informed quarters in Cairo expressed the opinion that they will not entail any fundamental change in the over-all strategy which calls for the prior destruction of the Nazi Reich.

Basically, these sources pointed out, the United Nations' strategy envisages fullest possible concentration of the Allied forces in the Far Eastern theater as soon as the Hitler power is disposed of.

New Pressure Against Japan

The new feature of the grand global pattern which appears to emerge from the Cairo meeting is that the pressure against Japan, far from being held in abeyance or meagerly applied, now will be tremendously increased without waiting for the Reich to be knocked out of the war

Nor will this entail any modification or curtailment of the Allied plan to step up the growing pressure on Germany at the same time, these sources declared. On the contrary, the current series of discussions are expected to produce new military moves designed to bring the onslaught against Germany to its decisive stage while simultaneous stepping up of the tempo of operations in the Japanese theater is applied.

Announcement of the steps taken to free oppressed China, Manchuria, Formosa, Korea and the Jap-held Pacific islands was expected immediately to give a tremendous boost to the morale and hopes of Jap-dominated peoples throughout the Far East.

The dramatic six-day conference in North Africa was a forewarning to Emperor Hirohito that the days of Japan's dominance in the Pacific area are drawing to a close.

To Crush Japan

The campaign mapped by President Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-Shek involves, first, the crushing of Japan as a military power, and, secondly, the stripping from Nippon of all the territories conquered by the Japs since 1895.

The plan has as its prime objective the unconditional surrender of Japan, the sole condition under which hostilities will cease as provided in the Casablanca declaration by President Roosevelt and Churchill.

Japan is to be relegated to the status of a third-rate power with all her resources which would aid future aggressions removed.

The principals gathered for the week-long conference, from Monday, Nov. 21, through Saturday, Nov. 27, after travelling vast distances by air and sea. President Roosevelt crossed the Atlantic and North Africa by air. Generalissimo Chiang and Madame Chiang, wife of the Chinese president and premier who acted as his interpreter, came across Asia by plane. Churchill made the greater part of his journey aboard a British warship.

Althought the main discussions at the parley involved the smashing of Nippon, the three leaders, before leaving North Africa for undisclosed destinations, also viewed the global aspects of the war.

Allied Aims Set Forth

The high commands of all three nations were present at the conference, including operational chiefs in the main theater of operations. The American party which joined President Roosevelt numbered just under 100. Churchill's staff consisted of some 200, while Gen. Chiang brought with him a score of leaders to participate in the talks.

The communique issued on the results of the conference set forth at the Allied aims that:

1.—"Japan shall be stripped of all the islands in the Pacific which she has seized or occupied since the beginning of the first World war in 1914." Involved besides the Philippines and the East Indies are all other islands grabbed off by the Japs and the Caroline, Marshall and Marianne groups which Japan had held under mandate from the League of Nations.

2.—"All the territories Japan has stolen from the Chinese such as Manchuria, Formosa and the Pescadores shall be restored to the Republic of China." Manchuria was overrun by the Japs in 1931. Formosa and the Pescadores both were taken by Japan in 1895 when China was defeated in war.

3.—America, Britain and China, "mindful of the enslavement of the people of Korea, are determined that in due course Korea may become free and independent."

The conferees agreed that "Japan will also be expelled from all other territories which she has taken by violence and greed."

Of the war aims of the three powers in the Pacific, the communique said:

"The three great Allies are fighting this war to restrain and punish the aggression of Japan. They covet no gain for themselves and have no thought of territorial expansion."

The Allied leaders cautioned, however, that extremely bitter struggles lay ahead. The United Nations they emphasized, will have to "persevere in the serious and prolonged operations necessary to procure the unconditional surrender of Japan."

The conference marked the first time that the Chinese Generalissimo had come face to face with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

JAPAN WILL BE SHORN OF ENTIRE STOLEN EMPIRE

discussing with Stalin plans for hastening the end of the war in Europe.

One of the results of this conference may be official announcement of the appointment of Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. army chief of staff, as supreme allied commander of the invasion forces which launch the final crushing blow against Germany in western Europe. Gen. Marshall is reported to have conferred in Cairo with Amgot officials concerning the occupation of European territories.

Asserting that the "military pressure (against Japan) is already rising," the communique indicated that new grand strategy plans were made to speed the defeat of the Japanese.

Drastic Treatment

The most striking part of the joint communique, however, was the disclosure of the drastic treatment to be accorded a defeated Japan. The United States, Great Britain and China served formal notice that they intend to strip Japan of all the territories it has stolen over the years in order to build an empire.

Not only is Japan going to be forced to withdraw from all the territory it has conquered in this war, but it is going to be compelled to disgorge conquests that date back to the end of the 19th century.

While the communique said the three powers "covet no gain for themselves and have no thought of territorial expansion," it left no doubt that they intend to put a stop to Japanese territorial expansion for a long time to come.

ed as missing after dropping the demolitions to hamper enemy shipping.

Earlier, it has been reported that 49 Anglo-American aircraft were lost in operations over Northwest and Western Germany.

Destruction of 29 enemy planes was reported.

The American official announcement said 14 United States fighters were lost while escorting Flying Fortresses and Liberators over Northwest Germany on Wednesday. During these attacks, however, 20 Nazi interceptor planes were shot down.

Twenty-seven heavy bombers and one light bomber are missing.

A British air ministry communique said that Royal Air Force fighters shot down nine enemy aircraft and that seven RAF planes were lost. One RAF pilot parachuted to safety.

captured the entire strategic Fossacesia Romagnoli ridge, and the communique pointed out that fighting in the vicinity of Fossacesia was particularly fierce.

The strategic town of Rocca San Giovanni (CQ), two miles inland from the Adriatic and four miles north of the Sangro river, was captured by Montgomery's men.

Eight miles inland from the Adriatic, and the same distance north of the Sangro, the Eighth army was battling against fiercely resisting Germans in the outskirts of Castel Frentano.

The breakthrough to these two towns represents an advance of three miles.

Other units of the Eighth are reported in the outskirts of Casoli, on the highway from the Adriatic coast to Pescara and the road to Rome. Casoli, fourteen miles inland is one of the most important towns in this area.

Heavy Demolitions

Montgomery's men repulsed a number of counterattacks by German troops newly-arrived at the front, the communique said.

As the Germans withdrew up the coast they left heavy demolitions to impede the progress of the Eighth which also was hampered by heavy new rains in this battle area.

Allied air support to Gen. Montgomery's ground forces was described as magnificent and the combined action of airmen and British soldiers nullified the Nazi effort to stem the tide by sending down reinforcements from Northern Italy.

Quantities of German guns and equipment were abandoned in the Sangro river defenses. When the British gained control of fortifications they found the defenses extremely well organized. There were many dugouts, entrenchments, were barriers and minefields.

New Nazi Divisions

American troops of the Fifth Army covering the western half of the trans-peninsular battlefront beat off two determined counter-attacks by German infantry.

The Yanks took prisoners who were part of the German 44th Infantry division, newly arrived on the front line. The appearance of these troops brought to 11 the total of Nazi divisions known to be at the front.

Headquarters disclosed that American Warhawks, invaders and Spitfires had carried out intensive aerial barrages against the German winter line in advance of the Fifth Army. The assault reached a peak when the airmen hit targets along a 20-mile stretch every 10 minutes for three hours south of Cassino. When the Invaders joined in the fray they blasted the railroad east of Formia and Monastery ridge near Calabritta Rocca.

No mention of the activity of American or Australian ground forces on Huon Peninsula was contained in MacArthur's communique.

Light naval units shelled Japanese shore installations at Madang, and sank an enemy ship in the Dallman Passage off the New Guinea coast.

FACTS ABOUT ANTI-FREEZE in this war year!

Restrictions on raw materials needed in the war program have affected supplies of all brands of anti-freeze. However, enough anti-freeze of the types approved by the War Production Board should be available to meet the needs of motor car operators, if there is no overbuying or hoarding—the main causes of shortages of anti-freeze.

▶ Motorists should take good care of the anti-freeze they can get. They should see to it that the cooling system is thoroughly tight, so that anti-freeze won't leak out. They should have the fan belt, hose connections, cylinder head gaskets and radiator carefully serviced, and should have adjustments and replacements made as needed.

If you saved anti-freeze from last winter, the solution may need strengthening for another winter's protection. It is possible to bring it up to strength with War Emergency "Zerone." Consult your dealer who handles Du Pont anti-freeze. He has a Du Pont protection chart which shows how much to add.

DU PONT ANTI-FREEZE PROTECTS TWO WAYS—AGAINST FREEZING AND RUST

War Emergency "Zerone"—an ethanol product—temporarily taking the place of regular "Zerone." War Emergency "Zerone" will give you good wartime anti-freeze, anti-rust protection at low cost. Price $1.40 a gallon.

END HUNGER STRIKE

LEWISBURG, Pa., Dec. 2.—(INS)—A two-month hunger strike of six conscientious objectors at the Northeastern Federal penitentiary at Lewisburg was ended today with the inmates reported "in good shape".

Warden William E. Hiatt said they "just called it off" after refusing food since Sept. 29 in protest against prison censorship of their mail. No punishment was contemplated, he added.

Hiatt said the ruling has not been changed. The men, all convicted of draft violations, had been fed by tube for the past month.

TRIAL DELAYED

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Trial of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and its officials for alleged irregularities involving war steel contracts, today was continued tentatively to February 7, 1944.

Counsel representing the corporation had requested a continuance to a date in May, pleading that a trial now would affect war production adversely in its plants, since many steel technicians and key officials needed on the job would be called as witnesses.

Meanwhile, unless opposing counsel can agree on a later trial date, the February arrangement will stand, said Robert L. Wright, special assistant to the U. S. attorney general.

Big League Baseball Will Not Be Suspended In 1944

Plan Usual 154 Game Schedule; Pittsburgh Awarded Star Classic

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. — Major league baseball will be on in full blossom next season in spite of the toughest war ever waged since they were organized. They had to quit during the last world war. It seemed likely that the drain on manpower, the restrictions on transportation and the uncertainty of the times would cause a cessation of baseball hostilities, but in the face of everything the majors will be doing business at the same old stand and about seven minor leagues will go again.

All this became quite evident today as the annual baseball meetings trundled along toward their ultimate conclusion, with some bickering among the minors over their own particular government headed by Judge William G. Bramham and considerable indecision over what procedure they should adopt.

Classic To Pittsburgh

The point is, however, that baseball is going to go again. The majors will operate with whatever manpower they can muster and the spectators will have to like it.

Schedules will be made up for 154 games—the usual amount—the all-star game will be held at Pittsburgh on July 11, and the only squabble of consequence before the majors centers around night baseball. The Washington Senators have been given the right to play all the night games they choose, except on Sundays and holidays, beginning May 15. The St. Louis Cardinals and Browns want to play unlimited night games also and this point is to be cleared up momentarily.

That's about all that has transpired so far at the major league meetings—and that makes it important because everything is being conducted just as though there were normal times.

In the midst of it all, Judge Bramham remains the man of the hour—the man who stopped a rebellion and preserved the integrity of baseball among baseball people as interpreted by Commissioner Landis who remains the outstanding figure for good in the history of the game.

FOOTBALL STAR KILLED

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. (INS)—The death of Ensign Harold (Red) Zimmer, former Indiana university football star, while on duty with the Atlantic fleet, was revealed today.

His death was caused by accidental gunshot wounds and occurred Thanksgiving Day, according to word received by the widow, Mrs. Lois Zimmer of Indianapolis.

Ensign Zimmer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zimmer of Springfield, O., received the Big Ten medal for scholarship and athletics while he was a member of the 1941 Indiana varsity football squad.

PENNOCK PHILS' GENERAL MANAGER

Ex-Yankee Star Pitcher Assumes Practically All Phil Responsibilities

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(INS)—The white elephants of the National league, the Philadelphia Phillies, have a new general manager today—Herb Pennock, the former pitching star.

Pennock was signed yesterday by Bob Carpenter, new president of the Phillies, who persuaded Pennock to leave his job as boss of the Red Sox farm system. Herb's name will always be associated with the tough, colorful Yankees of the 1920's and Pennock's mound work materially aided the Yanks in their first real rise to power.

Pennock will assume practically all the responsibilities of the club and will no doubt step into the 28-year-old Carpenter's shoes, should the prexy be drafted.

The announcement of Pennock's signing came in the Hotel New Yorker during the annual meetings of major and minor league baseball men. Although the minors were a hotbed of debate, the majors produced next to nothing in news.

MINORS RE-ELECT JUDGE BRAMHAM

Shaughnessy-led Power Bloc Routed; Major-Minor Agreement Abrogation Defeated

By JOHN CASHMAN
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—If it were not for some adroit political maneuvering, and the ability to recognize a good reversal of opinion, Judge William G. Bramham would not be czar of the minor leagues today, and the leagues would be open to the most radical movement ever instituted in organized baseball.

Judge Bramham was re-elected head of the minor leagues for five years yesterday. He needed the support of 16 inactive leagues which were seeking the preservation of their voting rights in minor league legislation, and he got that support only when he stood before the large assemblage of league officials and vigorously denounced one of his own statements.

The Shaughnessy-led power bloc advocated a sweeping and rather calamitous program.

Program Calamitous

It was: (1) To increase the strength of the already strong leagues; (2) to decrease the power of weaker loops until they were practically enfeebled; (3) to remove Bramham as minor league head and (4) to rid themselves of the encumbrance presented by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, through abrogation of the major-minor agreement.

Judge Bramham declared all leagues eligible to vote, whether active or inactive. The 24 outfits represented then took a vote to sustain Judge Bramham's reversal (the 16 inactives voting in the affirmative, of course), the motion was carried, and every league represented in that room was declared, by law, to be worth one vote apiece.

Then the power bloc's pet project, the smashing of the major-minor agreement, fell under the inactives' hammer. It was voted to extend the agreement, and with it, Landis' judiciary power over the minors.

Pitt-Ohio State To Play In '44

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—(INS)—The Pitt Panthers were listed on Ohio State's 1944 gridiron schedule today.

The announcement was made by State's football mentor, Paul E. Brown, who came to Pittsburgh to address a meeting of the alumni of the Columbus school.

"College football," Brown said, "has just weathered its most critical year. Now that we have survived you can see the trend shifting. Down south numerous colleges which were inactive this past season have taken heart and will be back on the gridiron next fall."

Bivins Winner; Nod Unpopular

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland today held his 14th straight triumph, an unpopular verdict over Lee Q. Murray after he had been belted thruout half of a 10-round scrap before the largest indoor crowd in Cleveland fight history.

The 14,500 fans voiced their disapproval of the decision cast for the hometown heavyweight by both judges and the referee.

The unorthodox, heavy hitting Murray punched and jabbed the duration heavyweight champion half-blind during the final five rounds.

Bivins' desperate gameness and Murray's own ineptitude in pursuing his advantage swung the verdict. Both fighters won five rounds apiece.

In the semi-final wind-up, Lulu Constantino, New York featherweight, bombarded Freddie Pope of Columbus into a four-round technical kayo by flooring him six times in the final two minutes of action.

LOCAL HOOPSTERS FACE HEAVY CARD ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Titans' Clash With Juniata Is Feature; Ellwood, Shenango Set For Openers

With a half dozen Lawrence County machines slated to go into action Friday night, local cage addicts will have an rare opportunity of sizing up the court situation.

Westminster's "giants," winners over Camp Reynolds last Saturday night, seek their second triumph tomorrow night at New Wilmington when they entertain Juniata College's Indians in what shape up as an early season test for the locals.

Bessemer, already sporting a victory over North Lima, continues on to Poland, O., for its second pre-season contest.

Ellwood City high faces Zelienople on Lincoln gym' boards in the inaugural for the Wolverines.

Shenango high starts its pitching campaign at home Friday night, facing Evans City high.

Wampum high's Indians battle Beaver high in the local's opener.

Ben Franklin, winner of 23 out of 25 last year, starts by meeting Shenango's Reserves on Shenango floor.

Baugh Almost Sure To Win Pass Title

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Even if he has to whip his passes out of a wheel chair it looks like Sammy Baugh will beat out Sid Luckman for the National Football League aerial honors.

The terrific Texan needs only to complete 10 passes in two games for the Washington Redskins and keep his percentage above Luckman's .545 to regain the pro circuit's passing honors.

Luckman's Chicago Bears are finished with their regular league schedule. All they have to do now is sit back and wait for the New York Giants and Washington to knock each other out in two games.

Baugh Injured

To get back to Baugh and his wheel chair, Sammy has been nursing several injuries for two weeks but should be in fairly good shape to go against the Giants. He should be a cinch to complete five passes per game and replace Cecil Isbell at the league's all-time top flinging artist.

In the ground gaining department, Jack Hinkle likewise seems a sure thing to make away with that title held last year by Bill Dudley of Pittsburgh. Hinkle, running last week from Phil-Pitt's T formation gained 117 yards against Washington to pass Tony Vanadeo of the Green Bay Packers.

The Packers meet Phil-Pitt in Philadelphia Sunday and only an aroused Packer line can stop the Eagle ace. Right now he's trailing Harry Clark of the Bears by 44 yards, but Clark, too, is through for the season.

Baugh continues to lead the punters and pass interceptors and Don Hutson, Green Bay veteran remains far in front in scoring and pass receptions. He also tops the field in goal kicking.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Joe Rick, local sportsman, is the envy of his many friends both here in the city and throughout the county. Joe and Mrs. Rick have just returned from an extended trip to northern New England where he combined business with pleasure. The result of the pleasure end of the trip is one of those much-sought-after prizes of the late fall hunting season, a grand 11-point, 200-lb. buck. Part of their trip East was spent in Maine, where the Ricks were guests of Ed. Keller, well-known harness racing official, and Mrs. Keller. Together with several other Maine horsemen and their wives, the Ricks enjoyed a week in Maine's famous north country, up in far-famed Aroostook county, known the world over for its potatoes and its grand hunting and fishing, as well. The party's destination for the week of big game hunting was the Jasper Haines camps, located on Little Jo Mary lake, in the heart of the beautiful Mt. Katahdin region. Mt. Katahdin being the highest mountain in the Pine Tree state. It was near here that Rick shot the big buck.

Fritzie Zivic will box Ossie Harris at Pittsburgh December 13 after which he may forsake punching to become a referee. Jake Mintz will direct his arbitration efforts, according to reports....Herb Pennock, one-time ace southpaw hurler and more recently head of the Red Sox farm system, has been signed as general manager of the Phils.

Ted Williams, one-time slugger for the Red Sox, is an aviation cadet in the navy...Navy's football team won the August V. Lambert memorial, signifying gridiron supremacy in the east. The Middies received 56 votes to two for Army, the only other team which received consideration in the poll by the sport writers.

St. Lucy, Epworth Lead Church Loop

St. George, Croton Methodist,, Third U. P. Lose Second Round Tussles Wednesday

St. Lucy's and the Epworths soared to the top of the Church Basketball league standing Wednesday night by winning decisively on the Y.M.C.A. court.

After the Epworths had bowled over St. George Greek Orthodox by a 47-35 margin, the First Baptists handed Croton Methodist its second setback, 25-23, in the most exciting fray on the bill. St. Lucy's rounded out the program by drubbing Third U. P., 38-23.

The Epworths gained an early lead over St. George and kept boosting the margin. By halftime, the winners held a 24-18 advantage. Reed, Wainio and Ward led the Eps to their second triumph, dividing 35 points. Center Hrisoulas nabbed high scoring honors for the night by throwing 20 points.

Lutz-Zeigler Star

Bob Lutz and Joe Zeigler spearheaded the First Baptists' close V over Croton. The victors gained a 15-10 first half edge which proved enough to cop by a two point margin. Ron Nelson and George Adams starred for the twice-beaten Crotonites.

In the finale, St. Lucy's displayed considerable finesse in thwarting the Third U. P. bid for a second loop win. In the opening half, the seventh warders walked off with a 20-18 lead. As hostilities were resumed, St. Lucy's pulled away to a lopsided victory. DeProspero and DiThomas arched two dozen points for the winners while Bill Reed and Z. Darzynkiewicz featured for the losers.

OVER 60 A. A. U. RECORDS BROKEN

Gundar Hagg Sets Pace By Establishing New Marks In Three Events

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(INS)—With Gundar Hagg setting the pace in track and field, a total of 63 records were broken during the past year under National AAU auspices, Paul R. Jordan, chairman of the record committee, announced today.

Records will come up before the annual convention for ratification over the coming week-end at Columbus, O.

Hagg, Swedish star who made a coast-to-coast tour, established a new American mile mark of 4:05.3, a new 1,500 meter standard of 3:47.8 and a new two-mile record of 8:51.3.

Bill Hulse ran a 4:06 mile behind Hagg and will get credit for an American record by a U. S. performer. Glenn Cunningham held the previous official mark for this country—4:06.7.

Ensign Cornelius Warmerdam topped the field performers with his all-time record pole vault of 15 feet 8½ inches made indoors.

Ensign Hugh Cannon with a 174 foot, 10⅛ inches discus throw and Cliff Bourland with a 30.2 performance for 300 yards added to the outdoor performances overshadowed by Hagg.

Saratoga claims to be the oldest race track in the country, having been opened in 1862.

Sports Ramblings

Sportsgraphs in short measure:----

Deer draped across fenders of autos bearing Lawrence county shotgun-packin' papas is a common sight. Dr. C. M. Booher, Wilmington avenue, Frank Moorehead, of Harlansburg, Raymond L. McKee, of R. F. D. No. 7, Mahoningtown, and Glen Laughlin, R. F. D. No. 7, were among the Pa News to get a rack on opening day . . . C. B. McKissick, a Butler countian, is new basketball coach at Mt. Jackson high, succeeding Irwin Stunkard, Princeton high's new principal . . .

East Brook high's new cage boss is Murry McJunkin, of the vocational agriculture department . . . One of the new basketball rule changes adopted by the PIAA makes it compulsory for a game official to have complete possession of the ball following a field goal while another alteration places the ball in play at mid-court instead of under the hoop following a successful personal foul score. The rule covering a technical foul is unchanged . . . .

Cleaning out Ne-Ca-Hi's grid season: Ted Lewis copped scoring honors with 36 points followed by Roscoe Williams who galloped across four times. Pvt. Tony Razzano, who participated in only two contests, finished in third with 25 markers, one point ahead of Dick McKee. John Benigas registered a dozen points to occupy the fifth slot. Mike Roussos' 11 conversions shoved him in sixth. Joe Joseph, Jim Falk and Denny Newman were behind Roussos with one "touch" . . . .

Statistically, the 'Canes rolled up 117 first downs compared to 56 for the opposition and piled up 1,653 yards by rushing as against 1,036. The locals aerialed 48 times, connecting 15 while the opponents struck by air more frequently, completing 26 out of 82 heaves. NC posted 184 yards by air; the enemy 412. NC intercepted eight passes and saw seven of their 48 land in enemy hands. The locals blocked five kicks and fumbled 18 times but managed to recover 13 . . .

Miscellany:—Charley Keller, New York Yankee star outfielder, has been re-classified 1-A . . . Now it can be told dept.:—The new 1944 baseball was "smuggled" into the world series, permission being granted by the "jedge". The new pellet is made of synthetic rubber and cork and listed as livelier than the '42 pill. The Yanks refused to give the apple a trial in NY but got a crack at it in St. Louis. "Bill" Dickey has nothing but praise for the '44 horsehide . . . .

Before the Bears-Cards game in Chicago Sunday, Harry Garbiner, White Sox vice prexy, was asked to lock up all the Bears' cash in the WS strongbox. Garbiner departed that afternoon for the winter meetings, forgetting all about the moola. Sounds like a case of cash in cold storage' . . . Captain Charles Owen Humphreys, ex-Navy baseball coach, will become director of athletics at Annapolis as soon as Captain J. E. Whelchel shoves off for active duties . . . .

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Some are mean and some are not . . . people . . . A call just came in from the Mother of an Aviation Cadet of the U. S. Air Corps . . . This lad was traveling from one post to another by train when every bit of his luggage was stolen . . . And that's no small loss to an Aviation Cadet . . . Included in the duffle bag was a pair of brand new shoes he had just bought before changing posts . . . Some people will steal anything . . . and then there are others who wouldn't take a gold brick if it were handed to them . . . This part of the story came from a Mrs. Dockman here in town . . . one day recently she lost her purse in a downtown store . . . never missing it until she was out of the store . . . she returned but no one could find said purse at the counters of the store but upon applying to the main office she found that some very nice person, a woman, had found the purse and had turned it in . . . no name was left but Mrs. Dockman would like to thank the individual personally but as the finders name is not known may this serve as THANKS.

And do you remember and we quote:

"And while I am talking to you, fathers and mothers, I give you one more assurance. I have said this before, but I shall say it again, and again, and again. Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars."

It's true that the japs did stab us in the back but the bulk of our soldiers, sailors and marines have been sent in the opposite direction . . . but that is over now and not a real threat to the 4th term . . . the 4th term itself should be enough to keep any President from that many terms . . . Too long in power breeds a desire for continuation . . . look over history. A love for power, it's human . . . Julius Caesar had it, Napoleon Bonaparte had it . . . so does adolf hitler and poor old mussolini had it until a palace revolution made him let go. And it's not seditious to say that Mr. Stalin is thinking along those lines. It's also a human trait to want to pass along a good thing to your children.

A Navy V5 Hat was found by a student at Walmo school. Maybe some lad from Westminster is missing a hat.

STOCK MARKET SHOWS STRENGTH

'Peace' Stocks Continue To Lead Market In Morning Trading Hours

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(INS)—"Peace" stocks continued to lead the market higher today. Adding fractions to more than a point to yesterday's good gains. Strength in these issues steadied the entire list, including the so-called "war" issues.

Trading was fairly active, with sales running above yesterday's 711,270 shares.

American Distilling, which jumped ten points yesterday on the company's reported revision of its liquor distribution plan, dropped over 3 points today on profit taking. Other liquors were quiet, with prices generally holding within fractions of last night's close.

Showing gains ranging to more than a point were such peace groups as the electrical equipments, air transports and the soft drink issues. Rubbers were firm while Electric Auto-Lite, American Car & Foundry and Youngstown were strong spots in their groups.

Motors were higher under leadership of Chrysler, amusements were steady, as were rails, utilities and mail orders.

Chiang Kai-Shek Back In Chungking

CHUNGKING, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek were revealed officially today to have returned to Chungking from the three-power conferences in Cairo.

Official sources disclosed that the two leaders arrived in the Chinese capital yesterday morning after a 42-hour airplane journey from Cairo. They and other delegates who attended them at the sessions declared that they were convinced the meetings were "most successful" and added that they were greatly impressed by the work accomplished there.

Might doesn't make right, but it makes rules. Always and everywhere, rules are made by the strong for the weak.

The quickest cure for that important feeling is a trip to Washington to get something.

SAYS MARRIED MEN ARE USED TO 'WAR'

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 2.—(INS)—A draft board chairman becomes confused these days when he opens his mail, filled with contradictory views of prospective draftees.

On one hand are the men who can offer any number of excuses and reasons for deferment. On the other are those both married and single, who want to get into the fight.

A father employed in New England, but registered with the Jamestown draft board, wrote recently to ask how soon he could hope to receive his call. But a single man wrote to point out that the married men should do the fighting because "they should be used to it."

GREENVILLE MAN KILLED

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 2.—(INS)—W. F. Sankey, 87, of Greenville, died today of injuries suffered when he was hit by a truck on a street in Greenville.

London police are teaching children the need for caution on the street.

Cooks For Students At Westminster For More Than 27 Years

Ella Kanagyi Is Dean Of 32 Cooks Now Serving At Local College

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 2.—Twenty-seven years of cooking for Westminster college coeds and collegians is the record of Ella Kanagyi, who at present is one of 32 cooks employed by the college to work in the dormitories, the army barracks and the naval cadet station on campus.

Meals when Ella first came to the college in 1916 were much simpler, especially in regard to desserts. Ella learned her trade from her mother at her home in nearby Fayette. Cooking at the Hillside, which was then occupied by coeds and not navy cadets, Ella recalls that meals weren't planned by dietitians. Instead a "matron" made out the menu.

Only 100 girls lived in Hillside, and cooking wasn't done on such a large scale as now, when if soup is on the menu for the army boys at Browne hall, 12 gallons are required.

Of Pennsylvania Dutch ancestry, Ella likes plain, simple cooking and likes best to prepare meat and potatoes and vegetables. Apple pie is her favorite dessert.

For 22 years, Ella cooked at the Hillside, and for two years she was chief cook at College hall, a dormitory where both coeds and collegians came for their meals. Then Ella cooked for a semester in Browne hall, and at Ferguson hall, a women's dormitory, for two and a half years. When Browne hall kitchen was reopened for the army, Ella began to cook there.

Other cooks who prepare food in Browne hall include Mrs. Mabel Hawk, Mrs. Esther Frankenberg and also assisting is Mrs. Della Glenn.

Book Suggestions From Librarian

Miss Joyce, Junior Librarian, Gives Book Gift List For Christmas

Few things give children more pleasure to receive for Christmas than books, especially if they are editions of general favorites that every child enjoys reading. In the opinion of Miss Alice Joyce, junior librarian of the public library, a book for a child makes an especially suitable gift this year when toys are scarce.

A parent or relative who gives a child one of the so-called 'classic' books for children can feel that he is spending his money for something that will give lasting pleasure, Miss Joyce feels.

As a guide she has prepared a list of books according to age groups. On the list, which has the approval of the American Library Association and contains titles that maintain a steady popularity at the library, readers will recognize many of their own childhood favorites.

First section of the list, suggestions of books for small children up to school age, is printed below. On succeeding days will be run lists of books all the family can enjoy, for children 7 to 9, children 10 to 12, and for 'teen-agers'.

Anyone who wishes to see these books before deciding on gift purchases may inspect them in the junior department of the library, Miss Joyce said.

For Small Children

A B C books, Mother Goose, Peter Rabbit, Little Black Sambo, Golden Goose Book, Child's Garden of Verses, Winnie-the-Pooh, When We Were Very Young.

The Christ Child, Animals Everywhere, Ola, Pelle's New Suit, Johnny Crow's Garden, The Story of Babar, Hey Diddle Diddle Picture book, Let's Go Outdoors, Buttons.

Told Under the Blue Umbrella, Poppy Seed Cakes, Hercules, Little Toot, Little History of the United States, Songs We Sing, Stocking Books by Holiday House, Wu and Lu and Li, Millions of Cats, Marshmallow, Peter Churchmouse.

PISTOL-PACKIN MAMA DONATES HER GUN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS)—One pistol-packin' mama laid her gun down today right in the treasury's lap.

A Niagara Falls woman sent a .38 police special Colt pistol, a holster, and a box of shells to the treasury with the wish that they be used to further the war effort.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills

"The wardens are the front line of civilian defense," the council said. "They are in frequent contact with the public and they enforce the air raid regulations. We want to make sure that they are fully informed and ready for any emergencies."

UNCLE SAM'S REAL ESTATE

WE ALL KNOW Uncle Sam has gone into business more or less—in the utility business for example. But perhaps few of us realize that our uncle is also in the real estate business in a big way.

But according to recent statements in Congress the United States is a great war-time purchaser of real estate with more than sixty agencies—mostly bureaucracies to you—busy in the administration of his property. It is even charged that these bureaus do not know how much land Uncle Sam owns, where it is all located or how much it cost the taxpayers.

Attention was called to this real estate business recently by the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures of which Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia is chairman.

It is asserted that the government now owns more than 383,000,000 acres or about one-fifth of all the land in the United States. The tract is equal in size, it is said, to the combined areas of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Caroline, Georgia, Florida, Ohio, Alabama, Kentucky and Indiana.

This is a lot of real estate, if you ask us. It is maintained that of this amount the War department has acquired over 17,000,000 acres during the past two and a half years, for war purposes. This, of course, is but a small percentage of the total real estate holdings of the Federal Government. Total land controlled by the War department on March 1, 1943, was a little more than 43,000,000 acres according to the report.

In view of the report one may well wonder just how much of these 383,000,000 acres Uncle Sam actually needs in his business and what final disposition will be made of it.

Of course, we can understand that the War department needs a lot of land now in view of the tremendous military forces we are training. But whether we will need it when the war is over is another question especially in view of the fact that Secretary Hull promises an iron-clad international agreement for peace after the war is concluded.

Certainly one way to start back to normalcy would be to liquidate some of the large real estate holdings Uncle Sam has when the time for peace transition comes—from the standpoint of economy if for no other reason. There is no criticism, of course, in maintaining legitimate national parks.

Of course, the New Dealers may tell us that since we are the government we really own this land ourselves. All right, then if this explanation soothes you, just try squatting on some of it and see what happens.

TEST OF CHRISTMAS GIVING

The way the government's program for extracting money from the pockets of the civilian is shaping up, it looks as though a great many persons under sixty will have to stay at home nights soon, even though distinguished police authorities deem them comparatively auto-accident proof when in the role of pedestrian.

Federal income taxpayers who filed September 15 declarations and paid only half the estimated tax due have received bills for the second half, payable by December 15. If their estimates were conservative, they must file supplementary estimates on or before December 15.

Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. of the Treasury department announces that the Fourth War Loan drive with a goal of $14,000,000,000 will begin January 18 and continue until February 15.

On March 15 federal income taxpayers must file their annual returns and pay to the government whatever is coming to it through failure to estimate their income sufficiently high—to say as little as possible of that unforgiven half of one-quarter of the 1942 tax.

The moral is: Do your Christmas shopping early, and avoid bumping into that December 15 payment.

Christmas is the one time in the year when everyone can think of others while engaged in shopping. It would be a mean taxpayer who would refrain from giving presents to his friends this particular year when gift buying entails a little sacrifice. In the years before taxes soared so high, many people could give presents to their friends without feeling the pinch. Yuletide, 1943, offers the real test of friendship.

After the holidays, the egotistical taxpayer can devote his thinking to himself—and the government.

SHIP SURPLUS

No activity in the war is more indicative of American enterprise than its shipbuilding program. This is apparent in the statement of Admiral Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, that by the end of 1944 the United States will have delivered more deadweight tonnage of ships than was possessed before the war by all the fleets of the United States, Britain, Germany, Japan and Norway.

In the two years since the Patrick Henry, the first Liberty ship, put to sea, this country has acquired more than 22,000,000 deadweight tons of merchant shipping, or more than 2,100 vessels. Deadweight tonnage will total 50,000,000 tons by the end of next year. Seventy shipyards are working at top speed and will continue to do so until the Axis has been conquered.

The nation will have a tremendous surplus of merchant ships after the war, Admiral Land says. He suggests five ways for disposing of the ships:

Give them away.
Charter them.
Sell them.
Scrap them.
Keep them in reserve.

Admiral Land favors retention of all the larger and faster ships and continuing cargo vessel building in peacetime.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACH CHILD WHAT NOT TO TOUCH

During the discussion I led recently with a young mothers' club, a mother offered some excellent ideas. She said: "I spend short periods every day walking about the house showing my 14 month old baby various things we must touch only very carefully and gently, and showing him how. I even take things down out of his reach for him to see and touch or I hold him up near them.

"Of course he has had his hands slapped consistently for seizing a few things he was told never to touch, just a few. I am sure this restraint is much more effective just because I help him examine carefully so many other things."

A little granddaughter during her 14th, 15th and 16th months and her mother were with us last summer. On their arrival, we three adults—mother, grandmother and grandfather—agreed on just a few things she must never touch—and that when she did, her hands would be slapped by the one of us nearest to her at the time. She got very few slaps all summer and learned quickly to avoid permanently these few forbidden things.

My special bulletin, "How To Teach Tot Meaning of NO," may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

We also agreed we would merely keep her away from other things she could easily harm or which might harm her. What impressed me most was that, barring the few things she was consistently and permanently forbidden (when NO meant instant pain) a mere, quiet "NO," or "No, that is Mother's", or "No, that is Grandpa's," given not as a command but as mere information sufficed. But it would not have sufficed, I am sure, without her having had effective restraint concerning the few forbidden things.

This procedure, of course, required constant supervision by some one while the youngster was awake and outside her pen. Moreover, she gradually learned to be contented in her pen for longer and longer periods of time. She had developed more ways to amuse herself. She was not left unduly long in the play pen at any period. We followed a plan whereby we would go to her at the end of so many minutes, gradually lengthening the interval. Whereas, in her early 14th month she rarely would be happy in her pen for more than ten minutes at a stretch, she often spend periods of half an hour or longer there during her 16th month, even when no other person was in sight. I should add that this child got an abundance of cuddling.

Q. Please suggest a good way to get children of school age to go willingly to church and Sunday school.

A. Let both parents go regularly with these children.

WASHINGTON — Alfred M. Landon: "The recent state and municipal balloting was the best evidence of sentiment throughout the country at the present time. FUTURE HOPE

When men begin to spend their wealth
To fight the subtle foes of health
And use the price of guns and shells
For college and cathedral bells,
Then life, both on the land and sea,
For one and all will happier be.

When reasoning men can find a way
As problems rise, be what they may
To sit together in dispute
And not be moved to strike or shoot,
The following dawn the rising sun
Will light a world with warfare done.
When men no longer teach the boy
To use his knowledge to destroy
And find his fame in maimed and killed,
But train him only how to build,
Then they may dream and hope to see
Their dreams come true, whate'er they be.

WIDOWS AND DIVORCEES

"What is the proper form of address for a divorcee and a widow? We have had numerous arguments about this question. Also, what of the wedding and engagement rings. May either a divorcee or a widow or both continue to wear these?"—M. J.

Answer: A divorced woman has, in most states, the legal right to retain the use of her husband's full name: "Mrs. John Smith". Most divorcees, however, prefer to drop their husbands' Christian names and substitute their own maiden surnames thus: "Mrs. Worthington Smith if the maiden name was, for instance, "Mary Worthington."

A widow, on the contrary, retains her husband's full name for life or until she gives it up through remarriage. She is never socially addressed as "Mrs. Katherine Roberts" but always correctly as "Mrs. John Roberts." Only in business or legal matters may she correctly be addressed by her Christian name and that merely because she so signs herself "Katherine Roberts."

A widow may continue to wear her rings until the day of her remarriage, but most women remove them as soon as they accept the attentions of other men.

Divorcees usually remove theirs as soon as they contemplate divorce or even before. I cannot recall ever seeing a wedding ring on the finger of a divorcee. She would never want to "cramp her style" with any such encumbrance.

Question: I correspond regularly with a boy in the service. Mother thinks I should send him a Christmas gift. Since we are merely friends and he knows I am in love with someone else, I wondered if it would be proper for me to send him a gift.—Betty Ann.

Answer: Send him some inexpensive rememorance: Cigarettes, candy, a writing kit, or some similar gift. The boys who don't get Christmas furloughs are very lonely and appreciate gifts and cards from their friends and relatives. Don't neglect them.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

"What kind of an education do you advocate for our boy? writes a woman reader.

"He is fourteen years old, and my husband and I are constantly arguing whether to send him to college when the time comes.

"I want him to get the best possible education. My husband says, what good is a college education, except to make a snob out of a fellow?

"What do you say?"

The lady goes on to say that they are in reasonably good circumstances but that it would place quite a financial burden on them to send the boy to college.

One of the most difficult things to advise is the kind of an education people should give their youngsters.

I have had more argument about education than about religion—and in either case the arguments never got us anywhere.

I believe that education should bring about just what the word means.

E-ducate come from the Latin. "E" means "out and "ducers" means "lead".

In other words to educate means to bring out and develop what is in a person.

It means to bring out the inherent qualities and capabilities to the fullest of a child's ability but it can do no more.

I fully agree with Dr. J. B. Conant, president of Harvard University, who complains that too many youngsters who haven't any qualifications for it, are sent to college.

I do not believe that college gives a young person a firm foundation for a career in which a higher education is required, or for which it is at least a help.

But I am against a college education simply for the sake of vanity, better social standing, the honor of a degree, or to enable the college-bred female of the species to contract a better marriage.

Education should primarily prepare youngsters to cope with life.

A butcher is a most honorable practitioner of his trade, but he certainly doesn't need a college education.

A physician, a lawyer, an engineer, a banker, a writer should have a college education, by all means.

There is only one factor that should determine this problem: "What is my child best fitted for? What are his aptitudes? What are his leanings, his tastes, his own desires?"

Answer these questions and you know whether to send your child to college.

Give the wrong answer, choose the wrong course—and you will have given another misfit to life, no matter how many the college degrees.

The World and the Mud Puddles

FACTS HARD TO LEARN

Whatever else may have occurred in Germany during the last few months there is no doubt that the propaganda methods of Goebbels have changed. Neutral "leaks" of reports tell of rioting and sabotage in several cities after Hitler's beer cellar speech were a little too perfect. Such disturbances will come, of course, but not yet on a scale worthy of outside attention.

A nation that has endured Hitler as long as Germany has and whose people have swallowed his tall tales of invincibility this long without breaking, certinly could be expected to hold out a little while longer in view of his latest pledges of future successes and retaliation against England. It will not be until Hitler's gullible millions have had time to see the ridiculous aspect of his latest outbreak that they will allow the home front to collapse.

The reports which "leaked" out came through a Swedish newspaper which purports to have sources of news inside Germany. It must be remembered that the Germans, too have had free access to Sweden. It was only a short time ago that Sweden stopped the passage of German troops through that country But for four years of war the Germans have had no restrictions to speak of placed upon them inside Sweden, and it would be a folly to assume that Goebbels would fail to take advantage of such an opportunity. It long has been common talk that the Germans have owned and maintained newspapers in Sweden for the sole purpose of planting whatever propaganda material they desire the Allies to obtain. Stories that would not be credited if it were known that they were coming directly from Germany may have in the past, been widely circulated as true simply because they bore a Swedish label.

It is true that the Germans could glean no ray of hope for the future from Hitler's talk, despite his promises. But it is equally true that

Hints On Etiquette

In these days when jobs are plentiful and workers scarce, it is the wise employe who plays fair with the firm. Being constantly late to work is unfair to those who employ you. When the war is over and jobs less plentiful, it is the person who comes on time and is responsible who will be retained, the tardy ones who will be let go.

Believe Japs Are Having Trouble At Home
Terrific News Story Expected To Break Soon
Senate Determined To Solve Liquor Problem

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The year 1943, now fast drawing to a close, probably will go down as the biggest news year of the war.

There were the Casablanca and Quebec conferences. The United States and British armies cleared the Axis out of Africa. They smashed out the Axis stronghold of Sicily, reduced Sardinia and Corsica, and invaded the continent of Europe via the toe of the Italian boot.

Russia turned the tables on Germany, stopped the German summer offensive cold and have driven the German armies in headlong retreat all the way back through the Ukraine nearly to the old Russian border of Poland.

Then, recently, came the meeting at Moscow between United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Russian Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. Both Hull and Eden conferred with Stalin and set the the pattern for future progress of the war against Germany and on the restoration of Axis occupied countries after an Allied victory.

But the biggest news of 1943 has not yet been told. It is in the making, however. Its nature will be another great turning point in World War II for the Allied nations. The world will read about it in smashing headlines before Christmas.

If any date could be set this column's guess would be that Dec. 7 of this year will be a headache for Japan of proportions greater even than Tojo's stab in the back at Pearl Harbor. This time the Allied nations will be at bat.

Where's all the "likker"?

Thats' the $64 question now when any two people get together. Even congress, with all its other worries, is asking about the sudden drought that has left nothing but wines and cheap rums on the shelves of most liquor stores. In fact, the scarcity of liquor, and the sudden evaporation of most known brands, has got under senatorial skins.

They want to know why you can't get even a bottle of anything short of "cooking whiskey" without a liquor seller being your best friend.

The senators are worried about the possible return of a condition as bad as exitsed under prohibition when crime reached its highest peak in the nation's history.

The result: they plan to crack down on those responsible for the present situation. They propose:

1—An investigation by a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee.

2—A proposal to cut from eight to four years the time in which liquor may be held under bond in warehouses free of tax.

Leaders of the investigation are Senators Scrugham (D) of Nevada and Van Nuys (D) of Indiana, chairman of the senate judiciary committee. Senator Walter George (D) of Georgia, chairman of the finance committee, is behind the move to cut the tax-free time on bonded liquors in half. George wants to force more liquor out of warehouses. The Scrugham-Van Nuys inquiry promises to explode a lot of dynamite.

Army and navy officers in Washington are pleased with recent Japanese propaganda claims that their forces have scored smashing victories over Allied sea and air forces in the South and Southwest Pacific.

Japan always has exaggerated battle results in its own favor but never with such fantastic claims as those emanating recently from the Tokyo radio for home consumption and for the world.

One claim said that Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., recently lost his whole South Pacific fleet of 110 ships. American losses for the entire war are not much greater than that.

No one knows exactly what is in the Jap mind, but the best explanation offered by persons who should know is that the enemy is having trouble at home and is trying to keep up morale with great victory claims.

The real facts are that the American claims in air victories really are conservative. United States pilots returning from the South Pacific have "griped" over the fact that they virtually have to bring back a Jap pilot's gogeles or pants before they are given credit for a victory.

Great Game Of Politics

Congress And President

Washington, Dec. 2.

EVIDENCE that with a clear party majority in both branches President Roosevelt now has completely lost control of Congress is too clear and too important to be ignored. From various quarters recently the fact has been pointed out and, of course, interpreted in various ways.

THERE ARE, naturally, widely separated views. By the New Dealers, fourth termers and certain White House selected journalists and radio commentators a campaign, apparently, has been inaugurated to convince the country that Congress is composed mostly of moronic and selfish men who disregarding the interests of the country, are yielding weakly to the pressure groups. They are depicted as "defying" a great President, rejecting his sound recommendations in domestic matters to further their individual political fortunes Without attempting justification of either the votes or the attitude of Congress this is by no means an accurate picture. On the contrary there is solid ground for the statement that the basic reasons the President's influence has evaporated and his proposals no longer carry weight in Congress are the disbelief and distrust with which Congress is today saturated—disbelief in the soundness of the Roosevelt domestic policies and distrust of the competency of his administration—and, in some instances, of his sincerity.

IT MUST be admitted that there is considerable data upon which to sustain this feeling. For example it is impossible to contend that at any time since the war began have the President or his Secretary of the Treasury presented an adequate and non-political taxation program. Instead, they have fumbled and fiddled until the sheer futility of getting the right kind of approach to this vital matter has discouraged a Congress that at one time unequestionably would have responded to firm, clear-headed leadership. Exactly the same thing applies to the Roosevelt fight to control inflation. At, no time has Mr. Roosevelt had the kind of labor policy to justify faith in the firmness of his purpose. His long resistance to the desire of Congress to enact real anti-strike legislation and the almost abject way in which he has yielded to the threats and pressure of the professional labor lobbyists are matters of record and largely responsible for the lack of faith in him that exists in Congress today.

THE INCAPACITY of the OPA the OWI and other agencies, the obvious fourth-term maneuvers such as the patronage handouts to the supporting city bosses, and the almost incredible waste of money have contributed greatly to widening the breach and rendering hollow the New Deal indictment of Congress as moronic and unpatriotic in dissenting from certain Presidential proposals. On the subject of waste resentment has been greatly increased by the extraordinary statement of Senator Butler of Nebraska, of the shocking pouring of American funds into Central and South America in the effort to create "good will."

DESPITE THE denial of Vice-President Wallace (who is not a disinterested witness) and some question as to Mr. Butler's figures, there seems slight doubt of the truthfulness of his story as a whole; nor that, in the main, it reflects the feeling of American diplomats in South America who know the facts and are in position to judge the effect. There certainly is some ground for asserting that we have poured an unprecedented amount of money into these countries, that a great deal of it has been wasted and that the results, Mr. Wallace notwithstanding, have been negligible. Add all these things together, plus the symptoms noted in the 1942 and 1943 elections of a growing distaste for the New Deal generally, and the situation in Congress is easy to understand. The effort to blame it on the Republicans just does not hold water in view of the House vote, for example, on the bill to ban subsidies urged by the President. On that issue seventy-eight more Democrats voted against the President than voted with him. Congress, it is true, is not displaying either great intelligence or breadth of view, but without White House leadership, that is too much to expect.

IT WOULD be fine if it could be done, but under our system and with this kind of administration, it just is not one of the practical possibilities. The plain truth is that at the moment the President's recommendations carry little weight in a Congress which he should be able to control. To some extent this is due to the feeling that Mr. Roosevelt is bored with domestic problems and so far as he can has delegated them to his aides. There is also the fact that Congress has acquired the feeling that the frequent Presidential messages which it receives are written by Judge Sam Rosenman, and that Mr. Roosevelt really knows very little about them. Although, it is a bad state of affairs. Our system of government can be reduced to almost complete futility when the President and Congress are at odds. It does not function; it just bogs down, and it is not surprising that thoughtful men are disturbed over the prospect.
